PA NEW OBSERVES

Weather reports show Saturday was a trifle hotter than Sunday. Weather Forecaster B. F. Johnson's thermometer climbed to 89 yesterday, but it went as high as 90 on Saturday. The lowest during the 24 hour period ending at 9 a. m. today was 67, recorded sometime last night.

The state's annual auto inspection campaign was inaugurated today. Authorized stations are busy making careful examinations of scores of machines, although the time limit runs on for a month. Each car, after approval gets a new O. K. sticker in the form of a keystone.

Won't be long now until the state has all the snow fences in shape along the highways for the coming winter. Along different routes leading into the city many have been placed, although they haven't been set up for the cold period yet.

New Castle's masculine populace was wondering whether or not to heed Dame Fashion's decree that all straw hats should go. Today's the day.

Pa Newsc saw three sandy haired youngsters on Croton avenue, Saturday. They weren't naturally sandy haired. They were playing in a pile of sand.

chicken was sitting pretty on a porch of a home on the New Castle-East Brook road, the other day. It was resting on a chair on the porch and other chickens sat on the floor below him.

Efforts of workmen to have the New Castle to West Pittsburg road improved should meet with a ready response on the part of the county officials. This highway from New

Charge Death Of Butler Man To Treatment In Holdup By Irene—Dague

(International News Service)
ALLEGANY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Another name was added today to the list of those who met death while opposing the criminal activities of Irene Schroeder, Pennsylvania's blonde "gun girl", and her alleged lover, Glenn Dague, with the burial in this quiet little New York state community of Fred Altenberg, 73-year-old Butler, Pa. resident.

Altenberg died at Butler of shock and abuse suffered, it was said, at the hands of Irene and Dague during their holdup of the chain store at Butler, just prior to the killing of Corporal Brady Paul of the state highway patrol.

The aged man was thrown to the floor of the store, gagged and so severely treated that he was unable to attend the hearing in the New Castle trial, it was said.

Altenberg's death marks the third in connection with Irene's flight across the country, the other two being Corporal Paul and Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright of Maricopa county, Arizona, who was fatally wounded when he and another deputy attempted to halt Irene's automobile as it fled through Chandler, Ariz.

Slayer Guarded Against Lynching At Coudersport

Farmhand Slays Little Girl In

GIRL IS FOUND

Threats Are Made To Lynch
Slayer — State Police
Guard County Jail

(International News Service)
COUDERSPORT, Pa., Sept. 15.—A detail of heavily armed state police was hastily assembled and thrown around this little Potter county jail today when reports were heard that an attempt might be made to storm the jail and lynch Harry Koons, farmhand and confessed murderer of 7-year-old Helen Cass, daughter of Koons' benefactor.

Because of the threats, reports were broadcast last night that Koons had been spirited away from the jail and taken to the McKean county jail at Smethport to preclude lynching attempts by enraged citizens.

State Police On Guard
When it became known today that the reports were untrue, that Koons still cringed behind the bars in the jail here and that threats of storming the jail were being openly made, the state police were ordered out to guard the prisoner.

The little girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cass, of Seven Bridges, 10 miles north of here. Koons was employed by Cass on the latter's farm and late Saturday was sent out to repair broken fences on the farm. Helen followed Koons, she was said to have been very fond of the farmhand.

Neither had returned at nightfall and an alarm was broadcast. After an all night search, Koons was found hiding in an abandoned barn.

Revenge Was Motive
He at first denied all knowledge of the little girl's whereabouts, but finally broke down, and directed officers to a rubbish heap where he said the body would be found.

Under the rubbish heap, the body of Helen was found. Her throat bore a jagged slash. She had not been attacked.

Koon's motive for the child-slaking was revenge, he told police. The prisoner asserted that he killed Helen because her father, after promising his automobile to perform an errand, sent another man.

Peeling against Koons was running high today despite the outpost of State police flung around the jail. The prisoner was under bond as a deserter from the United States Army and Helen's father had provided bond. Koons also was awaiting trial on a charge of forgery. Bond on this charge was provided by Cass.

National Socialists Advance
From Ninth In Power To Second In Sunday's
Voting

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
(International News Service Staff
Correspondent)

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Germany, turning radical at the polls, today stood registered by an overwhelming number of votes as sharply in opposition to the incumbent government's policies and the young plan.

It placed the government headed by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening in jeopardy.

Preliminary official final returns from Sunday's elections revealed an astounding gain in strength by extremist parties, with the National Socialists (German Fascists) advancing from ninth place in numerical power in the Reichstag to second in the new parliament.

Led by Adolf Hitler, Austrian expatriot and sometimes called the "Little Mussolini," the Fascists rolled up a vote that assured them the portentous strength of at least 107 seats in the Reichstag, as against the meagre dozen which they counted under the dissolved legislative body.

Critical Discontent
Riding on a landslide vote into an influential voting position in the forthcoming chamber, the Fascists great gain may be interpreted as illustrating with startling clarity the critical discontent of the populace.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)
CAMP RICHARDSON, Cal., Sept. 15.—Me and my destitute friend, Arthur Brisbane, can't seem to get together on Russia.

There is a thousand things I talk about that I don't know any more about than a senator, but I did take an airplane three years ago and flew from London to Moscow and Leningrad. Stayed there a couple of weeks, went with no delegation and wasn't personally conducted.

Saw everything, didn't even belong to Hoover committee and I don't know any more now about Russia than Brisbane does.

If I wanted to start an insane asylum that would be a 100 per cent cuckoo, I would just admit applicants that thought they knew something about Russia.

To Head Of Troop F.

CAPT. HARVEY G. BINTRIM

Military service extending over a period of 12 years and including service with the A. E. F. in several important battles abroad and National Guard activities at home was climaxed last week with the appointment of First Lieut. Harvey G. Bintrim, commander of Troop F 103rd Cavalry, to the captaincy by order of Governor John S. Fisher.

The appointment boosts the position of the New Castle unit of the National Guard. The commission was signed by the governor following a recommendation by Maj. Samuel B. Wolfe, commander of the second squadron, 103rd Cavalry.

With the new rank obtained, it is probable that Second Lieut. John E. Reed of Troop F will be commissioned to the rank formerly held by Commander Bintrim.

The last commander of Troop F to hold the rank of captain was William R. Walters, who resigned February 1, of this year after having been transferred to Buffalo, N. Y., in his work.

Man-Hunt Starts As Slayer-

Following Gun
Battle

(International News Service)
LONDON, Ky., Sept. 15.—Ted Geisking, Indiana gangster, identified as the slayer of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, was wounded in a gun battle with sheriff's deputies and is being trailed through surrounding hills today with a sheriff's posse in close pursuit.

Geisking was the only one of a gang of four who escaped when the quartet was ambushed near here yesterday after hi-jacking an Indianapolis, Ind., liquor truck.

Three Are Captured.

The captured trio gave their names as Robert Vickers, John Gauley, Dave Hodges and John Sheets. Geisking at first was reported being held, but with the arrival of State Trooper Carl Losey of Indiana and Sgt. George Williams of the state's attorney's office at Chicago, it was learned that the escaped man was the Lingle murder suspect.

Authorities from Chicago were expected today to take charge of the man-hunt.

Geisking was the only member of the quartet who chose to shoot it out with the officers, the others choosing to surrender peaceably. Wounded, perhaps seriously in the exchange of shots, the gangster fled into the hills.

Geisking had been sought for several weeks as the gunman who was employed by Jack Zuta, since slain to kill the Chicago Tribune reporter in the Randolph street pedestrian

Thief Robs Cash Register Saturday

Young Lady In Charge Is Called
Away, Evidently By Pal
Of Thief

Cash register of the Smith Dry Cleaning company office, 105 North Mill street, was robbed Saturday evening by some unknown person, while Miss Evelyn Mazey of 224 Winter avenue, who is in charge of the office, was upstairs answering a telephone call, which the police believe was made by a pal of the thief. The amount secured was $30.70. Checks and most of the change were not taken.

Officer M. J. Young and Officer Letera on investigation found that Miss Mazey had been called to the Beauty Parlor upstairs to answer a call of a man, who gave a certain name and asked concerning a suit, he claimed to have been left to cleaned and which he wanted to know whether or not it was ready for him. She left the door of the office open while she answered the call and on her return discovered that someone had entered the place and taken the paper money and some change.

ABOARD U. S. S. KANE, OFF NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 15.—Enterprise led Shamrock V by more than two miles as she rounded the 20-mile marker this afternoon in the second of their series of races for the America's cup.

ABOARD U. S. S. KANE, OFF NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 15.—Admirably handled by Harold S. Vanderbilt, Enterprise, victor in the first of the series for the America's cup, was leading Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock, V., at the ten-mile mark, the first leg in their thirty-mile triangular race today by a comfortable margin.

Enterprise and Shamrock presented an attractive picture as they rounded the first turn. The sun had come out and visibility was fine.

Spectators lining the decks of the many vessels in the harbor cheered as the Enterprise gracefully circled the marker. Two baby blimps hovered overhead, adding a novel touch.

Enterprise rounded the 10-mile mark at 1:21:30, executing a neat turn.

At 1:27:20—almost five minutes later—Shamrock curved around.

Wolford Is Showing Slight Improvement

William H. Wolford, who sustained a fractured skull and other serious injuries recently in a fall at Lincoln school, while washing windows at that place, is reported to be doing as well as could be expected at the New Castle hospital. ## Arthur Mometer

Let the whistle blow, let the referee and the linesmen get ready to go, let it rain or shine, let it blow a gale, let it hail, let it storm or snow, I'm ready for any thing that may come, winds that are cool or hot, for the time has come when the gridiron sport is ready to take the spot. Let the whistle blow, let the quarterback get ready to start his squad, I'm waiting to hear the old pigskin thud, as it drops on the white lined sod. And for many weeks it will be the dish of fellows like me and you, the game of the fall that is best of all, the weather is eighty-two.

South Bend Girl Killed In Bed By Unknown Attacker

High School Girl Dies From Ugly Wound On Throat Inflicted While She Slept

SUSPECT GRILLED BUT IS RELEASED

(International News Service)
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 15.—For the second time in a fortnight this city today was confronted with the brutal murder of a young girl.

Alice Woltman, 17, a student at South Bend High School, was murdered in her sleep early yesterday when her slayer crept into a bedroom at her home and slashed the girl's throat with a knife or razor.

Although she slept beside her 8-year-old brother Henry, and her two sisters, Evelyn, 19, and Henrietta, 20, were abed in an adjoining room, no one heard the slayer as he crept in the house, slit the Woltman girl's throat and made his escape through a rear window.

Making no outcry, the girl stumbled from her bed, groped from the bedroom and fell dead at the stairway. Other members of the family were awakened by her fall.

Suspect Questioned
Acting on the theory that a rejected suitor might have been the killer, police took Alex Pietrak into custody. He had taken the girl to a dance Saturday night and questioning revealed that the youth had been engaged to marry the Woltman girl. Pietrak was taken into custody three times yesterday and released last night.

Love letters found in the girl's room led to a search for William Myrick, but when police located him in Gainesville, Fla., he was dismissed as a possible source of information.

Feeling run high in South Bend today as hundreds gathered about the Woltman home. Police were forced to rope off the home to keep crowds away. A similar killing aroused the city recently when Marverine Appel, 13 years old, was kidnapped, attacked and garrotted.

Duty fingerprints made by the slayer when he entered the Woltman home by climbing to a roof and entering the bedroom window served as one of the main clues on which authorities worked. Several bloody fingerprints also were left on a window sill as the killer fled.

GERMAN RADICALS DISPLAY STRENGTH RESULT OF VOTING

An open-handed slap at the parliamentary government accompanied by a hefty repudiation of the peace treaties and the reparations settlement.

Closely on the heels of the Communists, the Nationalists, who captured third place in the Reichstag with 76 seats, advancing "one step in legislative influence. A 'Soviet Germany' has been the banner cry of these radicals.

An incomplete count of approximately 35,000,000 votes cast in an election hectic with riots and disorders and several fatalities, apportioned to the social Democratic party (Socialists) 143 seats, sufficient to maintain their pivotal position in the new parliament but a drop of 10 seats from their previous strength.

Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's party, the rigorously Anti-Young Nationalists who held second place in the old parliament, plunged badly toward the bottom with only 41 seats to their credit. The Nazis apparently having seen the seducers.

You're the JUDGE

A SMALL businessman is a western town entered into a contract with another man in the same town in which the payment by him of certain promissory notes was involved. The man with whom he entered into the contract was known to be insane. And so when the time came to perform the contract for some reason the businessman refused. At this point the guardian for the insane man interceded and asked the businessman for his reason for refusing to perform the contract. The answer he received was that the contract was not valid because made with an insane man, and even quoted the law to him, saying thus:

A contract to be valid must be a meeting of the minds of the parties. When one of the parties is insane he is not capable of understanding, and hence cannot agree to the contract, which invalidates the agreement.

Nevertheless the guardian for the insane man sued.

How would you decide this case? Make up your mind before you read the decision.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Castle and New Castle Junction is used by hundreds of workmen who reside in New Castle, and it should be improved in a satisfactory manner.

While the new Perry highway may be a fine route into Pittsburgh it appears that everybody in Pittsburgh thinks it is a fine route out of Pittsburgh as well. Traffic on this highway yesterday in the vicinity of Pittsburgh was exceedingly dense.

PA New is told by one New Castle driver who made the trip yesterday.

Church goers noticed the excessive heat yesterday. Fans were seen by the hundreds as worshippers attempted to keep cool during services. It was probably the hottest September Sunday in many years.

And just by the way—records show that on September 18, last year, there was a heavy frost. Weather forecasters do not look for early frosts this fall.

In true Huckleberry Finn fashion, two youngsters on their raft made a trip down the Neshannock. Saturday afternoon the raft was furnished quite divinely with a large white chair covering most of the surface. On the chair sat little sister and standing on the raft was big brother who superintended the trip with a large pole. They drifted as far as the first of the series of three dams above the North Street bridge.

Swimming enthusiasts are getting a last crack at the sport it seems. PA New noticed a number of swimmers in the Neshannock yesterday and Saturday. This warm weather won't last long, though.

A week from today is the first day of Autumn.

Street number of a Croton home is located in a unique place. It is decoratively painted on a sign. The sign stands on the front lawn knee high.

Another sight on Croton avenue that deserves mention is the baby buggy PA New saw Saturday afternoon. Baby was being wheeled by her brother. Brother did not mind it at all, because—well, you see the buggy was equipped with an automobile horn.

Tuesday is the second day for registration of voters in New Castle. The enrollment was not very heavy on the first day, and it is expected that the larger proportion of the voters will qualify on Tuesday. The election this fall is exceedingly important and a heavy registration seems certain. And many of the voters will delay enrolling until the last chance, as usual.

Still another use for the watering trough on the Croton hill PA New saw several little girls who had been in bathing, washing out their towels in the trough.

The pretty, large and new sedan with license number 0510-M that tried to make the turn at the corner of East North and Mill street, was sadly crippled Sunday afternoon as a result. The right rear wheel was fractured and yanked off.

Saw a man wearing a felt hat so new that the tag still remained on it!

Jack James Says Out Of Town Labor Being Employed

Jack James of 112 South Jefferson street, who has been a resident of the city for the past 48 years, and has always worked when possible, stated to a representative of The News today that he had been everywhere in the effort to get a job and was unable to do so.

His statement was to the effect that he was only one of many local men who find that it is impossible to get work finding, he declared, when they apply at improvement jobs here that for the most part out of town labor is being employed.

He said that he had carried his trouble to the county commissioners and others in authority here and without success.

SUITS CASE STOLEN
J. H. Ulmstead of Volant reported to the police over the week-end that while in the rest room of the P. & O. system on the public square that his suitcase containing clothing and valuable papers was stolen by some unknown person.

Council Would Pave Streets At School Buildings

Ordinances Asked On Those Streets With Schools Fronting On Them

Council met today at the city building and instituted action relating to the paving of three thoroughfares on which public schools front. The schools concerned are George Washington Junior High, Ben Franklin Junior High and the Arthur Magill schools.

Councilman Reeves opened the discussing by stating:

"I want an ordinance for the paving of Euclid Avenue between Delaware and North Mercer St."

Solicitor White informed Mr. Reeves that an ordinance to this effect had been adopted in 1928.

"O. K. I'll make a motion instructing the engineer to make plans and specifications for the paving" replied Reeves.

Councilman Genkinger presented the 'second' and the motion carried, with Treseer declaring—

"Providing the school board goes along with it."

"They will have to go along on Laurel Avenue" remarked Genkinger. Councilman Burns then asked that an ordinance be prepared for the paving of Cunningham Avenue between Allen street and Long Avenue. It carried.

Reeves followed with another motion asking for an ordinance for the paving of Albert street between Northwood Avenue north to the city line. It carried.

It had been anticipated that a delegation of school directors would confer with council during their session. None of the directors appeared.

Fall Conference Ends On Sunday

Many Important Decisions Made By Girl Reserve Cabinet At Camp East Brook

Fall conference of the senior Girl Reserve cabinet and faculty advisors ended at Camp East Brook on Sunday evening, after a week-end spent in discussion of various phases of the coming year's activities. The conference was well attended, over twenty girls being present.

It was decided that the first meeting of the senior club will take place next week, the date to be announced later. Anyone interested in joining the club should watch for announcements of when to register.

Cabinet members decided to have five interest groups, music, dramatics, personal living, handicraft and dancing. Any members belonging to the club can choose the group with whom she would like best to meet.

Program for the semester was planned. Outstanding new features will be the study of modern worthwhile fiction, the study of late English poets and their poetry and the study of modern poetry.

Hillside vesper services was a new thing tried at the conference and proved popular with the girls. The vesper service was held as sun set at the camp.

AMERICAN BOAT LEADS SHAMROCK IN SECOND RACE

ing line just as the steam whistle of the committee tug sounded, while the Shamrock came down the line tardily. Vanderbilt has won a reputation for precision at the starting line, an advantage that has frequently brought the defender home ahead of rivals.

Pretty Picture
Shamrock and Enterprise presented a pretty picture as they headed down the course, followed by hundreds of boats whose decks were lined with yachting enthusiasts. Both boats were carrying mainsails, staysails, jibs and large jib topsails.

A nice sailing breeze of about 10 miles an hour velocity was blowing and the visibility, which earlier in the forenoon had not been very too good, was steadily improving.

At 12:45 p. m. with the 10-mile turn within striking distance, Shamrock began a series of maneuvers. She went on her starboard tack and Enterprise promptly followed suit. Then Shamrock switched back on port tack in the hope of shaking off the defender, but Enterprise, ever on the alert, also went over to port. ## STAR LORE THE OLDEST STAR CATALOGUE IN EXISTENCE

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

A MAN OF no mean astronomical ability was Ptolemy who, in about the year A. D. 138, made a catalogue of the starry heavens embracing such stellar objects as he could well see with the naked eye. This catalogue contains 1,028 stars, their latitude and longitude, and the constellations in which they are located. This catalogue is known as the Almagest, Arabic-al, "the" and the Greek word megista, "greatest." For 14 centuries this catalogue was the astronomical authority of all cultured men. Ptolemy classified the stars into six magnitudes—the faintest being of the sixth, and the brightest, of the first magnitude; while those of intermediate brightness intervened.

ORGANIZE UNIT OF OVERSEAS LEAGUE

Mrs. S. H. Rhoads and Mrs. H. K. Bell entertained the Overseas club of Lawrence county at the home of the latter, 227 East Garfield avenue at a tea Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss M. The home was decorated for the occasion with garden flowers and the affair was a typical overseas tea as the linen and tea service were brought by the hostess from an advanced sector of France at the close of the World War. Tea was poured by Miss M. Edythe Davidson.

It is desired to increase the membership of the unit as much as possible and every Lawrence county woman, who saw service overseas during the world war in any organized unit, may become a member, or who saw service in the United States in an organized unit of the World War, may become an associate member, will be welcomed into the local organization. Crime Never Pays

"DIFFICULT" PEOPLE

EVERY human endeavor is attended by obstacles in skirts or trousers planted in the middle of the road and daring the progressive one to move them. They are what are known as "difficult" people. Their purpose in life is to warn others "it can't be done."

"Difficult" people are always carefully marked with red flags, danger signs and the expressive word "dynamite." There is generally one to every household or office and a dozen to a community. Would you hold a bazaar, change a business policy, alter a club rule, rearrange the furniture or even express an opinion, the attempt must be made with due care to keeping out of range of the difficult people.

Difficult people are the cause of such unpleasant exhibitions as subterfuge, flattery, deception, fawning, cowardice and servility. They turn straight lines into entangled and circuitous mazes in which many a glad idea is lost for all time.

Now and then, of course, a popular champion does rise up with a heart of steel to challenge one of the dampeners. Laughing at the display of warnings, he tilts for the difficult person's mid-ribs while timid onlookers wait to see his bones shattered by the impact. More often than not the champion reveals the obstacle not to be a thing of impregnable granite, but a mere straw man that topples over at the first thrust of the lance.

Alas, the victory means little to the crowd! For the champion once convinced of his own valor and despising those of less courage forgets the purpose of his revolt and high endeavor and himself becomes a difficult person.

Most things worth while have been done over the objections and deprecations of some one who didn't think it could be done.

CRIMINALS IN AIRPLANES

We have seen the underworld adopt, as need arose, various inventions of civilized people to its war on society. It was not long after automobiles came into general use when criminals were operating them to aid in quick escapes, and in masking, through speedy movements, their identity.

Airplanes, because of difficulty in obtaining and concealing them, have not proved unpopular so far with the violators of our laws. It is true that smugglers have used them to some extent, but for what we generally consider really criminal undertakings—murder, chief of all—their adoptions have been slow.

In the latter class comes the bombing of a Kentucky town recently, during strike disturbances. Three or four years ago an airplane was used by one Chicago gang in an abortive attack on another—but this Kentucky exploit calls attention to possible future developments.

Automobiles are so numerous, and can change hands so easily, that it is difficult to keep them out of the hands of criminals. The airplane is a different institution.

Factories where they can be made are few—and production is limited. It is a simple matter, with proper laws, to keep a careful check on them.

And now, at the outset, is the time for the government to undertake this. Careful supervision of their sale, with restrictions on their use to licensed pilots, will help to cripple any designs criminals may have. Further, this should be undertaken by the federal government to secure uniformity—leaving it to the states will result in varied and conflicting regulations.

ANOTHER CONSTITUTION DAY

With a congressional campaign going on and with public attention focused upon the Eighteenth Amendment, Constitution Day, to be observed throughout the country on September 17, takes on a new significance. It is easy to understand why the proponents of this annual observance anticipate an unusual display of interest.

Most of the exercises, orations and explanatory talks connected with Constitution Day will, of course, be centered in the schools of the land. But adults, particularly those eligible to vote in November, may well take this occasion to brush up on the provisions of our fundamental law.

The main part of the document sets forth the somewhat uninteresting, but none the less important, structure of the federal government, together with the relations between that entity and the several states.

In the amendments, however, one comes to grips with the guarantees of American liberty, the first ten constituting the famous "bill of rights" and the rest including the ways in which the people of the United States have endeavored to keep the document in step with changing conditions.

It has been observed that Constitution Day may have the effect of inducing the American people to demand the freedom which the Constitution guarantees, but which is often denied as a result of political machinations and selfish propaganda. That is probably a vain, though worthy, hope.

DON'T BELIEVE 122,000,000 CAN SING

They have a beautiful scheme for organizing a chorus of 122,000,000 people in this country all singing one song at one time. George Washington is going to have another birthday next February, and the idea is to have "America" sung over a radio hook-up that will take in the whole country. And the tuners-in are asked to raise their voices and add to the program.

Judging by casual samplings here and there, The Journal doubts if 122,000,000 of us can hoist any tune whatever. It seems to be lacking in some Americans. It will be interesting to see how many manage it next February. But, come to think of it, who's going to check up and see?

At least it's a mercy we aren't going to break loose with "Star-Spangled Banner," else Adam's apples might get dislocated. The Dallas Journal.

Beer Or Children, Choose.

Some that underestimate President Hoover's knowledge of practical politics may revise their opinions. Now that he ignores the passionate appeal from prohibition organizations to stomp the country on behalf of the dry law and amendment menaced by wet Democrats and Republicans.

The President decides that Americans over 21 years of age are sufficiently intelligent to decide about prohibition for themselves. He will look on and let the cat jump, without pushing her.

If we know and feel anything, in the grave, waiting for Gabriel to rouse us, there is one happy mother in a grave in Sweden.

Her son, Andre, a courageous explorer, lost in the Arctic 33 years ago now returned to his native land, will be buried beside her. He wrote: "No matter where I may be found after death, I wish to be buried beside my mother."

Every mother knows what happens these words would give to the mother of Andre. The grave will not seem cold, with her son lying beside her.

Lord Cowdray, owner of the London News Chronicle, an able man with worldwide interests, is here co-servicing us.

He reports that intemperance is diminishing in Great Britain "discouraged by taxation."

In England whisky bought legitimately, costs about as much as it does here, bought from bootleggers about $5 a bottle. In England, the money goes to the government. Here it helps build up our crime wave, bribes public officials and occasionally, as in New York, enables some judge or magistrate to buy his seat on the bench.

Lord Cowdray is one of the puzzling Britanians that seem to have time for business and everything else.

At home he hunts the hounds of which he is master, attends to polo, publishes his important newspaper. He has oil wells and oil works in Oklahoma, Texas, Mexico and elsewhere. And looks after them. Before returning to England early in October he will travel about 10,000 miles in the United States, looking after his affairs.

He comes of an active family. His father had interests all over the world and among other things built the Pennsylvania Railroad tunnels under the Hudson River.

Simon DeBlock of Kane County, Ill. pleaded guilty of making beer on his chicken farm, was fined $500 and sentenced to six months in jail.

And, this is the interesting part, his five children were taken away from him and made wards of the court.

If You Were Rich.

Perhaps it is fortunate that you have not much money.

Plentifully supplied with money and leisure, what would you do with it? For many years you have had ideas of what you would do if your financial condition would permit.

Some of the things were worthy of you, but you can't deny that other things would be detrimental to your health, and perhaps your reputation.

Are you not thoughtful well of now by many of your friends because you have not done some of these things you have long to do, but are deterred by lack of money and time?

You know very well what sort of person you might be if there were not hindering circumstances.

Often you have wanted to "punch some fellow's nose," or tell another just what you thought of him or her, and how you would snub certain persons if only you had a strong enough financial backing.

How entirely different you would be if near independence financially! Instead of keeping check on mean impulses, you would give them full sway.

Considering what you might do if you dared, it is not a good thing that your pocket book is flat and your bank account low?

Don't overlook a blessing of this kind, if you would not know how to use it if you had it.

We often hear people complain about New Castle not booming and getting new industries. There are many reasons for that. Just things like building a million dollar school house in a field and not having a paved street leading to it is one of those things. Having parks, playgrounds, swimming pools etc. is another thing that builds cities. Those cities that are growing and in which real estate is increasing in value instead of decreasing have all those things and are building more every year. There are cities in which only the cemeteries are growing and getting more beautiful, but that is not so good.

Pay For Reserve Board Head Discussed As Change Is Made

Resignation Of Roy A. Young As Governor And Appointment Of Eugene Meyer, Jr., Direct Attention To Policies And Politics Of Personnel

The succession of Eugene Meyer to the position of head of the Federal Reserve gives a text for comment on the low salaries paid in important government positions. Some discussion of policies all of it rather optimistic in tone with plenty of confidence in the new incumbent flavors the opinions expressed.

"The $12,000 salary the job carries is disproportionate to the ability it requires and responsibility it entails," according to the NEWARK EVENING NEWS. "That disproportion probably will not be remedied, however, until the country has had experience with less capable governors than Harding and Young."

The news also says as to the record of the board: "Mr. Young's regime, like that of his predecessor, has been marked by a panic and resulting depression of equal if not greater depth, from which the farmer has suffered in common with the rest of the nation. No scapegoat has been sought for this mischance, because the forces which impelled it have been more clearly understood by the people at large, and the farmer has had his eyes turned by the farm relief law in another direction. Nevertheless the measures taken by the Reserve Board last year were similar to those taken in 1920, and the only criticism leveled at the board under Mr. Young's guidance was that they were not imposed as soon as they should have been."

"The board controls the greatest government banking system in the world," declares the NEW ORLEANS ITEM. "The job pays $12,000 a year. Mr. Young needs more money. The chief engineer of the Reclamation Service, who will direct construction of Boulder Dam, draws the magnificent salary of $7,500 a year. The item continues: 'Mr. Young's resignation has an encouraging phase. He writes President Hoover that he could not have quit his post while the credit conditions of the country were strained or disturbed. Now, he repels it is clearly evident that the credit structure of the nation is in an exceptionally strong position.'"

As head of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, from which he was drafted three years ago by the Federal Reserve Board, recalls the ERIE DISPATCH-HERALD. "Mr. Young received a salary of $17,500 a year (the office now pays $25,000). As governor of the reserve board he was called upon to assume enormously greater responsibilities and to assume them at substantially lower remuneration. Few persons will disagree with President Hoover's assertion that Mr. Young has made a great personal sacrifice and few will challenge the latter's forthright decision, after three years of arduous and nerve-racking public service, to turn his abilities to fields where they will be more fittingly rewarded financially."

The change in personnel, as viewed by the SCHEENETADY GAZETTE, "directs attention again to the manner in which we underpay many men engaged in government service. Referring to a minor public official who derived $40,000 income from fees, the Gazette continues: 'Our methods of paying public officials is a hodge-podge one. The men of ability, who are performing important services, often are underpaid. And mediocre men who cannot accomplish much are able to make large sums. We can regret the departure of Governor Young, and yet sympathize with his position. And we should, in justice to ourselves if nothing else, seek to remedy such an absurd situation.'"

While observing that public attention has been directed chiefly to the salary question, the NEW YORK SUN disagrees with some of the policies of the board in the course of the financial crisis, stating: "From spring until September the board at Washington steadily refused to approve increases in discount rates voted by the directors of regional Reserve banks. In the case of the New York bank this refusal to approve was a weekly affair. Meanwhile the business boom and wild and disastrous speculation in stocks were allowed to run to a belated and unnecessarily severe

Calling the Meyer appointment "one of the most important acts of President Hoover's administration," the ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS states that "Mr. Meyer belongs to a section of banking thought which has not always seen eye to eye in recent years with the Treasury on management of the Federal Reserve system. It is possible," continues that paper, "that his accession to the governorship of the board will mean a new phase in Federal Reserve banking. Referring to the possible attitude of Congress, the PIONEER PRESS comments: 'Mr. Meyer has been accused of unfriendliness to agriculture, a charge which his efficient administration of the Federal Farm Land Bank system should soften. The Federal Reserve Board needs a strong guiding hand. Mr. Meyer is well qualified to supply it. This is as important to agriculture as to any other economic branch.'"

Commending the selection of Mr. Meyer, the NEW YORK EVENING POST points out that "as a former New York banker and as an efficient head of many governmental boards in the past, he has made his position in the highly ranked groups of the financial world," and that "his close relationship to Secretary Mellon will be another asset of enormous value to himself and to the board."

Mr. Meyer's lack of "sympathy with former Secretary Houston and the Federal Reserve Board (of that time) in the policy of deflation," is recalled by the RALEIGH NEWS AND OBSERVER, with the statement that "he held the view of Secretary Mellon that the policy was drastic and hurtful," that "Mr. Meyer sought to stabilize the price of agricultural products and opposed the discontinuance of the War Corporation." The News and Observer commends his stand in that "he was sympathetic with the cotton growers in 1920-21 and in 1926 assumed leadership in the movement to stabilize the price of cotton."

"Farm relief is all nonsense" according to Miss Charlotte F. Worley, a real "dirt farmer," who, as owner and manager of a 3,100-acre farm in Nebraska, is said to be the biggest woman farmer in the United States. Worley's farm and an additional 800 acres which she rents are situated in Box Butte County in western Nebraska. The region was believed to be good, only for grazing purposes until she successfully introduced small grain. She raises wheat, flax, oats, barley, corn, alfalfa and potatoes. Only 300 acres are now devoted to pasture. The total gross income of the farm exceeds $100,000 annually. The number of employees range from 20 in winter to 40 during the peak of the harvest season.

Miss Worley does not direct operations from a mahogany desk; she does her share of the work, thereby qualifying as a true "dirt farmer." She is the biggest shipper by railway in the district.

One on occasion an entire train was made up of farm products from the Worley farm.

"I may change my mind and stick to the Republican party," said Farmer Jake Bentley, today, after he'd just made $3 town a lame car. I kin recall when a game called "Pigs in Clover" swept the country, but then there wuz no other diversion 'cept croquet an' mumbly peg in them days.

Gas Co. Patrons Along Highway Have Complaint

Neshannock Township Residents May Appeal To State Commission

GAS COMPANY IS GROVE CITY CONCERN

Indignant over what they term an unjust "service" charge, residents of Neshannock Township, on the New Wilmington road are considering appealing to the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission for relief. The matter of an appeal has been discussed informally for some time and concerted action in the near future seems altogether possible.

The service charge complained of is one of sixty cents on each consumer, and the only service rendered, according to the residents is that of reading the meter each month. Gas is furnished this community by the Union Heat and Light Company of Grove City.

Also Fifty Dollars
In addition to the complaint against the service charge of sixty cents, a number of residents may appeal to the Public Service Commission for a refund of fifty dollars which they say some of them paid for the laying of lines, while others were not charged.

In the spring of 1928 it is said that the company canvassed the district and asked that each resident pay fifty dollars as an installation fee, for the new gas lines. This was paid by some of them, while others refused. The ones who refused were given service just as were those who did pay. This it is claimed is discriminatory.

There is now a thickly settled community on the Wilmington Road and the reading of meters can be accomplished in a short time. The service charge of 60 cents which seems to be for that service being complained of as unjust and the two matters may come before the Public Service Commission in a short time.

HUNDRED FIFTY TWO INDUSTRIES IN COUNTY

persons, a total of 14,465 industrial employees. Wages paid in 1928 amounted to $20,775,800 and salaries reached $4,301,300, a total industrial payroll for that year of $25,077,100.

Capital invested in industry in the county in 1929 was $52,527,100 as compared with $52,546,800 in 1928.

Bulk Of Production

Metals and Metal Products represented a big bulk of the industrial production valuation in Lawrence County last year, these products being worth $121,308,500. Primary metals had a value of $75,660,100 while secondary metal production was worth $45,648,400. Clay, Glass and Stone Products were worth $8,204,200, half of which represented the value of cement, and the other industrial classes had these values: Chemicals and Allied Products, $617,200; Food and Kindred Products, $1,851,200; Leather and Rubber Goods, $69,400; Lumber and its Re-manufacture, $351,200; Paper and Printing Industries, $603,000; Textiles and Textile Products, $284,800; Mines and Quarries, $4,413,400 and Miscellaneous, $353,800.

In quantities, Lawrence County produced among other things 46,390,000 building bricks, 2,941,000 paving bricks, 2,781,697 barrels of cement, 2,250 barrels of flour, 257,215 gallons of ice cream, 24,235 tons of manufactured ice, 3,063 dozen caps, 6,017 dozen shirts, 460,354 tons of iron and steel bars, 486,931 tons of billets, blooms and slabs, 544,950 tons of iron and steel ingots, 521,459 tons of pig iron, 19,196 tons of iron and steel sheets, 228,634 tons of tin andterne plate, 161,023 tons of bituminous coal and 241,665 tons of sand and gravel.

80 Plants In City

In New Castle where industrial products last year were worth $82,131,800, there were 80 industrial plants turning out 42 different kinds of production. The plants were operated by 38 individuals, 12 partnerships and 30 corporations and employed 7,978 persons including 7,250 wage workers and 728 salaried employees. Among the wage earners were 5,326 Americans white, 212 Americans colored and 1,712 foreigners. There were 6,276 male wage employees and 974 female wage workers who were paid $10,843,900, the males receiving $10,118,000 while female wage workers were paid $725,900. Salaried workers during the year were paid $1,879,900 which brought the industrial payroll in the city up to $12,723,800.

In 1928 New Castle had 7,092 wage workers and 765 salaried employees in industry, a total of 7,857 persons. Wages in that year amounted to $11,063,100 and salaries amounted to $1,923,900, a total payroll of $12,987,000.

Capital invested in industry in the city last year was $27,075,500 as compared with $26,029,600 in 1928.

In the city, as in the county Metals and Metal Products led the other industrial classes with a value of $85,776,900, all but $10,116,800 of which represented the value of primary metal products. Other industrial classes in New Castle last year had these values: Chemicals and Allied Products, $730,200; Clay, Glass and Stone Products, $2,557,100; Food and Kindred Products, $1,513,800; Leather and Rubber Goods, $52,800; Lumber and its Re-manufacture, $351,200; Paper and Printing Industries, $526,100; Textiles and Textile Products, $289,900 and Miscellaneous, $353,800.

AUTO RACE DRIVER IS FATALLY INJURED IN SATURDAY CRASH

hummed and cutouts roared as they sped around the half mile oval which became a veritable oval of dust.

Dust is thick
Bill Chittum, dirt track champion at 100 miles led the field. Every one of the other 15 drivers tried to keep on Chittum's tail. The spectators could not see the cars owing to dust on the back track.

On the seventh lap Chittum and several other drivers passed the three quarters turn. They were driving steadily but going along at a rate of approximately a mile a minute.

Fleming was leading George Bowers at the turn on the back stretch, known as the three quarters turn. Several other cars were on the outside of the track, bearing toward the seventh-eighths pole.

And then—

Car Crashes

Almost before one could blink an eye a cry of horror arose from 1,000 spectators as Fleming's car crashed through the inner rail. A cloud of dust hid Bowers as his car and he plunged through the same opening. Attendants started toward the spot as another cry arose as the car driven by Bill Schemp skidded as Schemp tried to avoid colliding with the Red Devil at the grandstand.

The 1,000 spectators turned their heads as Schemp crashed through the railing. His car snapped two-by-fours as if they were kindling wood. He was unhurt. Meanwhile attendants were rushing to the aid of Fleming and Bowers.

Jack Hayes, veteran auto driver and starter swung the red flag and the field slowed down. Meanwhile Louis Perry of Oil City, Charles Kelly of this city and others rushed to Fleming and Bowers.

Fleming was picked up from the track unconscious. A shoe had been ripped off. Bowers was inside the railing, unhurt. When Flemings car hit the fence he was thrown from the car back on the track.

Bowers Runs Car into Fence

Bowers travelling at a rate of a mile to 70 seconds or better was trailing him but was in the middle of the track. Rather than run over Fleming he plunged his car through the fence.

The drivers kept roaring the cars around the track. An ambulance rushed Fleming to New Castle hospital while attendants pulled Bill Schemp from the fence in front of the grandstand. He resumed the race. No one knows exactly what happened on the back stretch. Clouds of dust obscured the vision of spectators and in fact many of the drivers were forced to follow the "trail" or rear end of preceding cars.

Fleming was driving a stock racing car and there is a difference between the steering wheels of the racing cars and the stock racing cars. He meant to take it easy.

Before the race he told a relief driver that the rail fence was rotten and that he would take it easy and if he had to would run through the fence. He took things easy for the first few laps.

Coming around in the fifth lap he passed Bill Chittum but in the sixth lap the dirt track champion caught and passed Fleming. Other cars tumbled in a bunch around Fleming on the inside.

It is believed that when he tugged at the steering wheel to creep closer to the trail that it did not operate as he expected, as it was a strange car and he crashed the fence at the cost of his life.

His body was sent to Oil City Saturday night. The American Motor Contest Association and drivers expressed sympathy for the driver's bereaved family. He was a salesman for an automobile concern in Oil City.

LINGLE MURDER SUSPECT HUNTED BY ARMED POSSE

subway beneath Michigan boulevard last June 9.

Is Identified.

According to the state's attorney's office at Chicago at least 12 witnesses to the daylight assassination have identified photographs of Geisking as those of the killer who fired a bullet into the back of Lingle's head.

Officers waylaid the quartet of hijackers who were armed with two machine guns, two rifles and two revolvers. A battle ensued.

Geisking, long a scourge in Indiana as a result of kidnappings, hi-jackings and other crimes, was sought for two murders besides that of Lingle, authorities revealed.

According to police it was Geisking, acting under the gang leader Zuta's orders, who went to Kentland, Ind., to kill a gangster last May 20. By mistake he shot and killed William Simons, Chicago Board of Trade member for 20 years, it was said. And because Zuta failed to pay the price he promised for Lingle's murder, Geisking and his gang riddled Zuta in a Delfield, Wis., summer resort last July, it was said.

After fleeing Chicago last June, Geisking's trail was picked up in Indiana by two Chicago Herald and Examiner reporters and he was traced throughout Indiana, into Illinois and to East St. Louis, thence to North Carolina and finally to Kentucky. Following one obscure clue two newspapermen trailed Geisking for several weeks accumulating evidence.

The gangster joined forces with the Aiello-Zuta-Moran gang of Chicago's north side shortly after Indiana's notorious Traum gang, of which he was a member, broke up.

How Geisking turned on his employer, Zuta, was revealed when police learned the gang leader had promised $10,000 for the reporter's murder, but paid him only $5,000 of this. Returning to collect the remainder, Geisking was told that Zuta had been arrested and had "talked" of Lingle's murder Zuta was "put on the spot" shortly afterwards.

FIGHT OCCURS ON LAWRENCE STREET

Police were notified that Joe Madison, colored, had been taken from a local physician's office to the Jameson Memorial hospital with an injured head sustained in a fight at 109 West Lawrence street.

Detective John Young and Officer Letera made the investigation and found that Joe Madison had been struck on the head with a vase by William Chapman, a roomer in the place and Madison claimed that he did not know the reason that Chapman had hit him.

Chapman was located but was released when it became evident that Madison was going to make an information against Chapman. Madison was able to leave the hospital after having 15 injuries cared for.

A hearing into the case of C. E. Hamilton, former New Castle gasoline dealer, who is charged with violating section 8 of the liquid fuel tax act of the state, was continued until October 1 by Alderman W. E. Marshall today at the request of the attorney for the defendant.

The case is being pressed by Thomas F. Collins, investigator for the Department of Revenue of Pennsylvania, at present in the city. Disposition of the case will be determined at the next hearing. Hamilton was first cited for violation of the tax law on August 13. He is charged with failing to report gasoline tax collected by him while in business.

P.O. Affected On Two Thoroughfares

Two of the improvements which will likely be made by the city next year will be repaving of County Line street between East Washington and Walnut streets and repaving of Highland avenue between Falls street and Lincoln avenue. It is understood that the Pennsylvania-Ohio railway Company has been advised to this effect so the company in making their budget for 1931 can arrange to pay for their share of cost.

Wampum Plant Resumes Operation

Crescent Portland Cement Company at Wampum today resumed operations when 225 employees returned to work. Orders have been coming rather good and it was decided to start up the plant. As a result a spirit of optimism prevails in Wampum.

It is believed that when he tugged at the steering wheel to creep closer to the trail that it did not operate as he expected, as it was a strange car and he crashed the fence at the cost of his life.

His body was sent to Oil City Saturday night. The American Motor Contest Association and drivers expressed sympathy for the driver's bereaved family. He was a salesman for an automobile concern in Oil City.

If that rule were applied to those that patronize beer and whisky sellers under prohibition, some of our eminently respectable gentlemen would miss their children.

Senator Pine, of Oklahoma, proposes to fight the confirmation of Eugene Meyer Jr., as member of the Federal Reserve Board.

Senator Pine should think it over before voting. A Federal Reserve member ought to know about money. Mr. Meyer knows a good deal about it, and has made a great deal of it.

Also, which should appeal to Senator Pine, Eugene Meyer, Jr., is in business on his own account. Unlike some other members of the Federal Reserve, he is not an office boy, and sent to carry out the orders of bigger bankers. He will do his own thinking.

Russia's systematic attacks on religious beliefs continue. All the prayers uttered on that subject seem thus far, without result. The wise man, however, knows that Providence works in its own way and its own time.

Russia changes the great Cathedral of St. Isaac at Leningrad from a church to an "anti-religious museum." The main altar displays on a moving picture screen, anti-religious pictures. Anti-religious lectures are delivered from the pulpit.

It is a comfort for those really religious to know that the Ruler of the universe could if He would, and perhaps will, send a bolt of lightning to destroy the building impiously used with the moving picture machines and all the people in it.

Calvin Coolidge, who never says a word that isn't interesting, is for peace as long as nobody says or does anything that HE doesn't like.

He urges American "instead of catering to the instinct of the barbarian, who considered every stranger an enemy, to make more progress by following the dictates of religious enlightenment, which teaches that all men are brothers."

All men were brothers in 1914, but look what happened to some.

And, by the way, the ancient barbarian who considered every stranger an enemy, was the ancient barbarian that survived.

He didn't go for a stroll without his club, a sharp fint at the end of it. He never said:

Had he done so, some of those that he loved would have eaten him that evening.

Another good dry has "gone wrong" from the point of view of prohibition. Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, hitherto very dry, concludes now that "national prohibition is a failure," and that each state should be left to regulate the liquor traffic as a majority of its citizens deem advisable.

Senator Wheeler says he voted for prohibition in Montana to get rid of the saloons, "but under prohibition, we have in many cities more dives and speakeasies where they are openly selling rotten whisky, than you had in the old days."

Several weeks ago he was injured in an automobile accident in Butler and since that time had been confined to his home by the injuries. Since that time it was thought that he was recovering, but apparently his condition was not as good as was thought.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED FOR CITY LETTER CARRIERS

Veterans Recall Some Of Problems Of Early Days
Here

Sub-Stations All Over City Have Eliminated Carrying Heavy Loads

There was no eight-hour day in effect when several of the older men at the New Castle postoffice commenced their service here, said Postmaster E. W. Crawford today. The postmaster himself remembers vividly the day when such was not the case.

"Some of the older boys in the service, those who were clerks," Mr. Crawford recalled, "came to work early in the morning and stayed on the job until late at night, snatching about a half hour or so for their dinner and supper. They'd come out at 7 a. m. and work through until 10 p. m."

Since those days things have changed considerably, the organizations formed by the clerks and carriers have made working conditions different. Postmaster Crawford has nothing but praise for the organized groups and looks upon them as a real boon to the man in the postal service.

Oldest in Service.
George Swisher, city carrier, is the senior employee at the postoffice, having been in the service here for 39 years. He became connected with the postoffice in 1891, seven years before John Egan, another of the old-timers in the carrier service. Egan became a postoffice employee here in 1898. Willie Wallace started working in 1900.

In the clerks' division, honors for being the oldest employee in the point of service go to Arch Fleming, with 36 years of service to his credit. Fleming now is a special clerk having a room of his own. He seldom ever meets the public at the windows.

Along with some of the older men in the service is Superintendent of Mails Frank M. Wilson, who supervises the dispatching of the mail. He with Postmaster Crawford reminisced just recently and the discussion between the two was most interesting. The carrier end was Mr. Wilson's best subject while the clerical end, where Mr. Crawford started, was his easy subject.

Didn't Relay Mail.

"We never had what they call relay deliveries today," Mr. Wilson began. "Nowadays, you know, if there's too much mail for the carrier it is relayed to a certain point along his route by truck. When he reaches there he picks up the new load and goes on. We always dragged the whole load whether it weighed over 50 pounds or not."

"Fifty pounds is the heaviest load any carrier can take with him now under department regulations. Ten years ago this wasn't the case and sometimes a carrier would be burdened with 75 to 80 pounds. One day we carried 100 pounds of mail—and well, that's pretty heavy!"

"It was a rule that a carrier serving the district near the postoffice had to take his entire mail with him. He couldn't stop at the house to pick up the rest of his load like you can now. You had to take it all when you left."

No Pay At First.
"When a new man started in he wasn't paid for learning the route, but today he is. We had to become well acquainted with the section to be covered before we were placed on the payroll."

And there are scores of other things that Mr. Wilson could talk about, interesting things, too. With Mr. Crawford it is the same, and with the older men at the postoffice here one recollection would only bring another to mind.

"When clerks' and carriers' organizations didn't function, the force could strike whenever they pleased. But today these groups have pledged themselves to the government never to take such action, and on the contrary, the government is given the right to take drastic steps against them if they ever do. Postal employees should they ever strike would be subject to a stiff penitentiary sentence and a fine besides.

Legislate Their Cause.

But strikes never occur, and the postal organizations, by legislation, win things for their cause. Each year they hold their state and national meetings; adopt measures for their benefit and present them before the congress in Washington for final say.

Like in everything, Old Man Time has changed many things about post-offices. And probably when the next 50 years have elapsed the postmasters, clerks and carriers will find things still all the more different.

Vehicle Inspection Is Statewide Today As A. A. A. Asks Aid

Prompt Response Of Vehicle Owners Urged; Move Is Boom To Safety

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 15.—Prompt response of automobile and truck owners in the statewide inspection of motor vehicles that starts today is urged by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, State unit of American Automobile Association.

The move to make every vehicle on highways measure up to certain standards of safety is a commendable one and should have the endorsement and co-operation of every motorist, said S. Edward Gable, president of the federation. Acting under authority of the new motor code, Governor Fisher has set aside the period from September 15 to October 31 for the inspection, which every vehicle must undergo, out it behooves every automobile and truck owner to have his or her vehicle pass the test as soon as possible after the official inspection period gets under way.

"Don't wait until the last minute, but read the way to safer motoring by having your car inspected early in the campaign," is Gable's admonition to motorists.

In its Save-A-Life Campaign, to be conducted through the ninety member clubs the Federation is going a step farther than the State requires. "Properly functioning mechanism is a vital thing in highway safety," the head of the motorists' organization said, "but statistics show that in a majority of the accidents in Pennsylvania the fault rests with the driver. Thus it is evident that the mechanically perfect motor vehicle and the careful and competent operator go hand and hand in highway safety. With this in mind the Federation is inaugurating a campaign of education stressing the importance of safe and sane driving and caution on the part of the pedestrian as well."

"Each local club is prepared to handle the campaign in its own community stressing the imperative need for care in driving and in walking, bringing the matter before school children through talks in class rooms, and rousing the interest of the general public through newspaper articles. The clubs also will keep check through local police and members of the State Motor Patrol in their territory of the number of motor vehicle accidents in their respective districts during the six week period of the campaign."

Peter's Adventures

THE THREE WHO BORROWED TROUBLE

THE ANTS were warm and weary. Their dusky coats were covered with dust. And at first sight Peter judged they were not in good temper.

"Thank goodness we are back at last!" grumbled one of them, crossly. "I can't understand why we had to move so far away. A spot nearer the old home would have been just as good as the one chosen. That's the trouble with our surveyors. When they go searching for a location they never stop to think of the distance. What a walk we've had!"

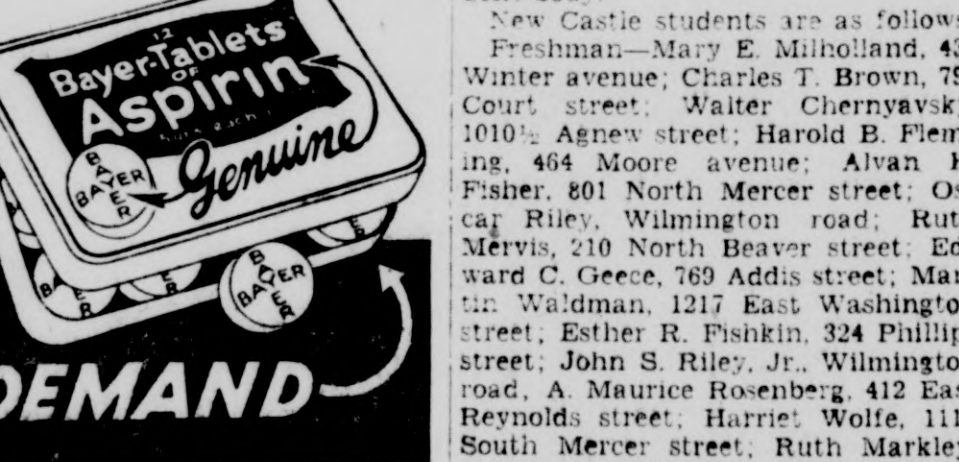

"The worst is yet to come!" sighed the grumbling Ant's companion. "We crawled back home with our claws empty. The return trip will seem twice as far when we have to make it bearing the eggs to our new quarters."

A third Ant-voice took up the complaint. "And as if all this were not bad enough, we have moved so far away from our old home that we shall be worrying always about our dairy, wondering if it is safe or if harm has come to it. The chances are that our fine herd of cows will be stolen by an enemy tribe if we leave them unprotected. And I should like to know how we can spare enough guards to protect them by night and by day as they must be protected if nothing is to happen. Yes, mark my words! We shall have to spend a lot of time and take a heap of trouble to find new stock unless we can coax our old cows into new pastures. And you know as well as I do, sisters, once our cows become used to certain feeding grounds they hate to leave them."

"Dear me, I never thought of that."

SUCH IS LOVE
The straightforward young woman believed in telling the truth. She married a very sentimental young man.
"My darling," he said "surely I cannot be worthy of you?"
"Oh, of course not," she answered. "But when a girl's been 23 for six years she would be silly to be too particular, wouldn't she?" —Tit-Bits.

Good Foods' Largest Market

The miracle wrought by low prices

"Chain stores are of real benefit not only to the consumer, but also to the grower of foodstuffs... The chain store is raising the standard of food products at lower costs to the consumer."

No friend of chain stores said this. It was addressed by Dr. James E. Boyle, professor of rural economy at Cornell University, to a recent meeting of the Farmers' Marketing Conference in the University of Maryland.

Dr. Boyle, like everyone else who has studied the subject without prejudice, puts his finger on the point of vital importance to customers of A&P. They enjoy the highest standards of eating at lowest cost to themselves.

They raise the standard of food products by their steady buying of the best. So, too, their buying encourages ample supplies of the high grade food they demand and can afford to pay for in A&P stores.

That is why A&P stores are the largest market in the world for food only the few could buy if A&P did not cut the cost to the bone.

Pacific Fliers Abandon Attempt To Cross Ocean

Lieutenant Harold Bromley
And Harold Gatty Forced To Return To Japan

FOGGY WEATHER HINDERS FLIGHT

Airmen Had Covered Approximately 1,200 Miles When They Decided To Give Up

(International News Service)
TOKIO, Sept. 15.—Uncompromising fog had ended today the attempt of Lieutenant Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty to span the Pacific from Japan to Tacoma, Wash.

Confronted by the forbidding shroud which spanned the heart of the ocean like a band of death, the two daring fliers swung their plane about and headed back for land while 1,200 miles at sea and arrived safely at Cape Chirya, 40 miles north of their starting point.
The entire flight lasted 25 hours and 21 minutes.

Anxious for Fliers
According to a message received here, the monoplane City of Tacoma landed on Chirya Beach at 6 a. m.
Monday (5 p. m. Sunday, Eastern Daylight Time), ending keen anxiety felt for them after more than 10 hours of silence.

First indication that the fliers had doubled in their tracks and abandoned their attempt to span the 4,775 miles of water between Japan and Tacoma came a few minutes before the report of their landing from the American Steamer President Roosevelt. She radioed to Tokyo that the airmen had been wireless at 9 p. m. Sunday giving a position showing they were on the way back to Japan.

It was the first word from the monoplane since 6:30 a. m. Eastern Daylight Time Sunday, when a faintly perceptible radio message informed the empire that they were flying east of the Kanchatka Peninsula after passing over the fog-bound Kur-iles. They added they were encountering better weather conditions.

It was calculated at the time that the fliers were averaging about 80 miles an hour. Previously the President Roosevelt reported she picked up a distant message from the City of Tacoma, but was unable to determine its position.

Great Circle Route
Fully aware of the extreme hazards to be faced in his Pacific flight, the first projected nonstop hop from Japan to Tacoma, Washington, Lieut.
Bromley planned to follow the Great Circle route.

"On a pioneering flight like this we must be prepared to take chances," he declared before hopping off from Sabishiro Beach, Acorn Prefecture at 4:08 p. m. Saturday, Eastern Daylight Time. "We are willing to take chances. But we are unwilling to delay any longer for fear the weather will turn cold and ice will form on the wings as we swing about the top of the Great Circle. There is always a good chance of flying out or maneuvering a storm or fog, but when ice forms on the wings there is nothing to do but go down."

Negro Robber Is Severely Wounded

Negro Attempting To Rob Store
Is Shot By Owner—Says
He Was Forced To Rob

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15.—Edward Davis, 26, negro, was shot and probably fatally wounded today when he attempted to rob the store of C. H.
Lantz of Unity, a suburb, according to police.

According to Lantz, the negro fired through the door several times after he had been refused admittance.
Lantz said he returned the fire.

At the Pittsburgh hospital, attendants said Davis' body was riddled with bullet and held out little hope for his recovery.

Davis told police that three men,
two of them white men, forced him at the point of guns to attempt the robbery of Lantz's store. The three men escaped. Police today were investigating the negro's story.

Attracted by the shooting, Constable
John Thompson and Edward Vance both of Unity, ran to the scene of the shooting and took Davis to the hospital.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.

Nervous Boy Must Have Rest, Food

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.
FROM ANOTHER city dropped in one day a lady to talk to me about her boy of six—one of those kind, loving mothers ready to give up her life, if necessary, for her children.

The boy was described as "very active and excitable, always on the go, and is nervous, stutters sometimes worse than others, wet the bed, won't eat what he should, very self-conscious, has many fears and is easily frightened, and doesn't get along very well at school."

Not able to examine the child, I could not learn much about his school difficulties; but her description of the child presented a clear picture of one who needed to be built up physically in a comfortable, calm but happy atmosphere.

The mother had already taken the boy to a high grade child medical expert who had advised regular rest periods by day, cod liver oil, and a new program of feeding.

"But how am I going to make him rest and eat and take his cod liver oil?" She, like hundreds of other mothers, was faced with the problem of carrying out the doctor's orders.

"If I were you," I said, "I should treat him as a sick child, and see that he never plays hard for long periods at a time. See that he comes in for several minutes of quiet during his play periods. Preceding each evening meal see that he lies down stretched out for at least fifteen minutes. Make it a daily affair over a period of months."

Concerning cod liver oil she said, "He hates it so; I just don't see how I can get him to take it."

My reply: "Calmly announce to him that the doctor says he must have it. If he expresses an emotion over it and refuses to take it don't insist, go about your business. Then in about fifteen minutes have someone ready to help you, who at your signal will gently but firmly seize the lad as you softly say 'You will take this,' putting it into him before your statement is completed. Then give him no more lecture or a word about cod liver oil, but make something else very attractive to him at once.

Act all the while as if you had no emotions. Next time don't ask him if he wants it but give it to him as you did this time. By and by he will volunteer, "You do not need to hold me." He even may learn to like cod liver oil. Many children do. Be sure the oil has been poured into the spoon out of his sight. No matter how large a dose the doctor has prescribed, give about a quarter of a teaspoonful the first day, gradually increasing it to a full dose, by the end of about ten days. So also give it to him in these earlier stages only once a day. If the doctor says twice a day be satisfied to make it twice by and by. For a few weeks, just once.

Buy cod liver oil in very small quantities so that it will remain fresh. Keep it in the ice box. Cod liver oil of any kind is more palatable than warm oil.

My boy of seven takes a teaspoonful of cod liver oil every day except during the summer months. He says "It is good." He has never "known any better." When the older children were at his age and younger they liked it too. They would be taking it still but for our own delinquency.

Making Repairs Now Good Policy Click Points Out

Furnishes Employment To Idle; Protects Property Against

HARRISBURG, Sept. 15.—With the approach of winter months every owner of property in Pennsylvania, to-day urged by Secretary Peter Glick of the Department of Labor and Industry to make survey of such property and premises for needed changes, repairs or replacements.

Secretary Glick pointed out that during the remaining few weeks of possible good weather, there is opportunity not only to protect property by making needed repairs and changes, but also to provide employment for many workers in Pennsylvania.

"The unusually dry summer has failed to draw attention to what may be trifling leaks in roofs, which if repaired at the present time will undoubtedly prevent considerable air loss, particularly if there be a severe winter with heavy snows," Secretary Glick said. "All stone and brick masonry of properties should be carefully inspected for repointing or relaying. This attention should be given to small or large retaining walls, masonry at steps or about cellar windows to prevent further disintegration of the mortar. Particularly should such attention be given to the tons of brick chimneys of residences as failures at such locations may result in injuries to persons below by falling bricks."

"Concrete walls and pavements should be repaired or replaced at this time so that coming frosts may not further cause property damage. Many jobs of painting should be done now to save surfaces against the sleet and snows of winter. If storm windows are being considered for residences, orders should be issued now for their construction."

Fire Hazards
"Any neglected wooden structure which have deteriorated to the point of uselessness should be demolished and the material systematically salvaged for further use of for fire wood. Such procedure eliminates potential fire hazards."

"Workers for all such purposes and also for the fall housecleaning can be provided through the State and Federal employment offices located in the following cities of the commonwealth: Allentown, Altoona, Erie, Harrisburg, Johnstown, Lancaster, New Castle, Oil City, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Reading, Scranton and Williamsport."

"If all property owners in Pennsylvania will make inspections of their properties and take immediate action toward having any necessary repairs, external or internal, made during the coming weeks the properties will not only be conserved against further deterioration saving money for the owners, but work will also be provided for many persons now unemployed."

Bo-Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK Sept. 15.—Percy Granger, the musician, got back from a vacation recently and was discovered by a newspaper man trundling his trunk from the railroad station to the Granger homestead in a wheelbarrow.

"How, come?" queried the reporter. "There's too much dignity in the world," replied Percy. "The reported spat thoughtfully into a nearby bed of pansies. 'Ain't it the truth,' he said."

ART FOR ART'S SAKE

John Voorhis, the Grand Old Man of Tammany Hall, breezed past the Hundredth Mile Stone on the Big Road some time ago and a New York sculptor conceived the idea of hacking out a bust of John in deathless bronze, said to be to occupy a place of honor in the grand corridor of the Wigwam.

The artist sent an agent to "feel out" Jimmy Walker on the proposition. Jimmy listened gravely, as all humorists the world over listen, and then said: "I think any man who lives to be a hundred in these strenuous times deserves a bust."

Not knowing Jimmy very well, the agent did not realize that Hizzoner was using the word "bust" in its larger meaning. The bronze was duly delivered, accompanied by an invoice for $1,000. The Committee on Fine Arts walked around the bust a couple of times and a bitter and acrimonious debate ensued as to whether it was meant to be a likeness of Corse Payton or the late lamented Dr. Munyon. It was finally relegated to the cellar and the bill was returned. The sculptor was informed that if he'd send for the bust without delay all would be well. If not, he'd probably be arrested, charged with a statutory offense.

The fact that the sculptor is a Republican has nothing to do with the matter, a bust.

As a prominent Tammany Man explained: "When it comes to the higher things in life like music, art and all that sort of hokey, we never let partisan politics stand in the way of our judgment."

THAT'S LIFE

Four times a year the Post Office in New York auctions off unclaimed parcels. These auctions are in the nature of Field Days for folks with adventurous souls and not much money. I attended one of these auctions a couple o' days ago. A woman on my left acquired half a dozen volumes of Emily Dickinson for a dollar. And three swordfish snouts were bought by a little chap, just in front of me, with bulbous blue eyes and spats.

"I'll hang 'em in th' den," he explained, with a disappointed giggle. A gloomy individual emitting a fragrance of gin and cigarettes ambled over and shook his head sadly.

"Yeh," he said, "that's life." "Whaddya mean, 'that's life'?" queried the owner of the swordfish snouts.

"Last year," replied the gloomy individual irrelevantly, "I some here an' coughed up one fish fer a pair o' baby shoes. When I get 'em home, the missus finds two ten dollar bills in th' toes."

"An' if you think that ain't life,"

ADD RACKET

Eddie Jackson, news photographer, was telling me about a subway fire he once "covered."

"I'm on another assignment when th' fire engineers come racin' past on 'down th' street a way. I see a bunch o' cops helpin' men an' women out of emergency subway exits in the sidewalk. They're proppin' the victims up against a nearby wall an' just as I'm gettin' th' old camera undered up a little guy comes along an' says: 'What's th' trouble?'

"Howinell do I know?" I says. "Looks like a fire in the subway, or somethin'."

"Later, when all th' victims are lined up, sprawlin' against th' wall, I back off for a long-shot. Then I stop an' look again an' lower th' camera. A cop's bendin' over a guy on th' end o' th' line takin' his name, an' th' guy's writthin' round an' rollin' his eyes. I walk up to him to get a good look. Sure enough it's th' same little bird who's ast me five minutes ago, what's doin'. He lifts his eyes to mine an' moans: 'Yuh got my name?'

I asked Eddie what he did. "What would you o' done?" he said.

FROM FARMER TO US

The most wasteful machine in the world is our American system of food distribution. So says Girard in the Philadelphia Inquirer, and he speaks a volume. About 96 per cent of a loaf of bread is wheat. Of the 10 cents you pay for the loaf, the farmer gets but a cent. The city buyer pays enough for food to give the farmer a dollar a bushel for corn and two dollars for wheat—but does he get it? Ask him.

Our method of distribution is too complicated. Food passes through too many hands. Too much money, from consumer to farmer, is dropped along the way.

DRUGGERY
Don't be afraid of the word drugery. Don't say your life is just made up of it. Mrs. Thomas A. Edison says every business, every work in life, is 98 per cent drugery. She is probably right. And through drugery come the completed tasks of life, the jobs done and done well, the consciousness of having accomplished something, which is about all the happiness there is.

Finds Sister After Fifty-Five Years

(International News Service)

RAMEY, Pa., Sept. 15.—More than half a century ago a thirty-three year old man kissed his three-year old sister a farewell before he left Ireland for America; this year they met again for the first time since their parting.

Some few years later the child followed her brother across the sea. Although they had lived within a few hundred miles of each other for many years it was only this year that the brother successfully searched for his sister.

Now, fifty-five years later, Frank Donahue, 88, and his sister, Mrs. John Kilcoyne, 58, have joined the threads of the trail which, though they often came close, never touched since 1875.

A short time ago Donahue began an earnest search for his sister. He went from Rochester, N. Y., to Du Bois, Pa., where he had heard she might be found. From there he traced a path to the village of Rumson, Pa., and concluded his search in the hamlet of Ramey, Pa., where Mrs. Kilcoyne had been residing for the past twelve years. A happy reunion took place.

Fascists Plan "Third Empire"

Flushed By Victory In Germany's Elections Fascists Plan New Empire

YOUNG PLAN REPUDIATED

By BARON ALBRECHT VON WOELLWARTH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service.)
BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Flushed with a victory at the polls beyond their own dreams, the National Socialists, or German Fascists, today have quickened hopes for the "third empire."

This mythical "third empire" is the ultimate though somewhat vague aim of the Fascists. According to their political deductions, the holy Roman empire which Napoleon smashed in 1806 was the first, the Hohenzollern the second. After these two empires, the 1912 German empire, the present republic regarded by the Fascists as merely a transitory phase in an event—one that was fated to precede the eventual appearance of the mightiest of them all.

Hitler is Leader.

The National Socialist movement was started in the worst inflation period after the war by Adolf Hitler, a young Austrian craftsman who served during the war with distinction in a Bavarian regiment. He is a splendid orator and popular with the masses. Hitler's idea is to see the workers away from "international Marxism," to free them from the "cosmopolitan and international capitalism" and to combine socialism with nationalism. He has always insisted that he does not care to found a new political party in the old sense of the word but that he wanted to start a revolutionary movement aiming at the complete regeneration and the thorough reformation of the whole German nation.

The economic depression, the disappointment of large masses with achievements of the "November republic," the disastrous effects of the Versailles treaty, the irritation over the new boundaries and reparations as established by the Young plan were factors that helped drive large masses under the "Swastika cross," the symbol of this new political faith.

The party is based on the principle of leadership and military discipline like the Italian Fascists. It calls for a decidedly "nationalistic foreign policy," with repudiation of the Versailles treaty and Young plan.

All of us gladly accept the advice of our moral superiors. The difficulty is to find any.

ROAMING With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Somehow the weather man seems to average up his offerings over the year's time. What we miss in the spring we get in the fall, and what seems to be more than our share in May is usually clipped off September. And the squawks that went up last May are now drowned out in admiration of the perfect September we are having.

Flower gardens that seemed to be through blooming have burst out again in new coats, and the succotash farm is actually returning some profits in the way of vegetables. Tomatoes are ripening so fast that by the time you get back from the end of one row, the tomatoes at the other end are ready for picking. Even the sweet corn seems to have repented of its summer sulking and is bearing ears that are worth picking.

Out along the creeks the summer cottages are closing for the year. The noise and laughter that could be heard almost any day out there has given way again to the tomblike silence. The Heinz House camp is still the youngsters have gone back to Pittsburgh, and from Armstrong's bridge back to Kennedy's Mills the creek is quiet again, or nearly so.

Some of these young fellows insist upon busting around and occasionally get hurt. Bill Reck is about over a recent accident which in an older man might have meant a broken leg or a fractured skull. He was working on a carpenter job and in some way fell from the scaffolding, bruising himself somewhat but breaking no bones.

Bill's age and his looks don't agree. The family Bible shows him to be eighty years of age but he could pass for fifteen less than that any time. Asked him why he insisted upon working as hard as he did forty years ago and his answer was "well I don't want to get old."

It begins to appear as though he never will. If a fellow doesn't show some signs of age at eighty, the probabilities are that he won't until he's along about 98 and then it won't make any difference.

How to get off a Federal jury is a puzzle that several of the boys are trying to solve today. Federal court is opened in Erie and the lucky numbers here are booked to try a few cases for Uncle Sam. After serving on a Federal jury you can appreciate why anybody would want to get off, although it is work that has to be done.

The accommodations in Erie are meagre, the rooms small, and unless you get in early, you can stand around in a hallway all day waiting for the government to call you in judgment upon some luckless lout who stole an automobile or transported liquor across the state line or tried to smuggle a little in over the Canadian line.

Uncle Sam pays you four dollars per day and one round trip fare. A fellow who has the habit of eating three times per day finds himself short of money after paying for a room, and buying a couple of picture post cards.

Everything and everybody is in a hurry. The government is in a hurry to get through, and the defendants are in a hurry to get out. The only fellow who isn't in a hurry is the juror and he isn't going any place.

Farrell High school is the latest one to take up night football. Noticed from the roadway over there that the light poles are being installed and the team is going to play its football under the chandeliers.

New Castle High school started something when it installed the lights here. At that time there were but one or two places in the entire county where night ball was played. Drake University and the University of Cincinnati being two of them. New Castle was the first high school to take up the idea and since then it has been spreading with all the enthusiasm of a case of HIVES.

All of which brings to mind that fell terribly when he received your bill.—TIT-BIT.

dial tilt of the season, with Coropolis furnishing the opposition.

This year may prove to be a test of loyalty. You can't have a winner every year and the losses to the team this year have been enormous.
A squad of green material has been whipped into shape, but after you say that you can still remember that it's green material. The team may lose a few this year, but the real fan will be out there rooting no matter what the score is.

New Castle High school football men are scattered now from New York to North Carolina and west as far as Indiana. Duke University has a number of them, and it may be yet that a New Castle boy will captain the Blue Devils of North Carolina.

Pitt has them. Duquesne has them. Tech has them. Purdue has at least one, and a list of teams carrying New Castle High school football men sounds like an intersectional roster.

Wooster Death Is Declared Suicide

Investigation By Authorities Indicates That Adolph Wooster Shot Himself

That Adolph Wooster, who lived between Enon and New Galilee, came to his death by his own hand, was the decision of Coroner J. P. Caldwell who with County Detective H. Martin Lee and Constable Sharp Leslie, investigated the finding of Wooster's body Saturday afternoon.

Wooster, who was 39 years of age, lived alone and farmed a small tract of land. Neighbors had not seen him about since last Wednesday, and on Saturday their suspicions were aroused.

No answer was made to knocks on his door and as there was a strong odor about the place, the door was forced open and Wooster was found lying dead on his bed with a bullet hole in his forehead and a revolver by his side.

As he is said to have been in poor health since about a year ago when he injured one leg, there was nothing about the case to indicate that it was anything but suicide. Owing to the condition of the body it is believed that Wooster shot himself on last Wednesday.

Decayed was a single man. He is survived by his father, Charles Wooster of Beaver Falls, one brother Charles Wooster and two sisters, Mrs. Pauline Frederick and Mrs. Clara Fox all of Beaver Falls.

The body was taken to Beaver Falls and the funeral will be held from the home of relatives.

Citizen Of Old Time Would Be Amazed At Modern Marketing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

If a citizen of the eighteenth century could by some miracle be transported intact to our own day, I am inclined to believe that the method of selling food would impress him as strangely as any of the changes he would see.

After the first shock of automobiles, steam engines, plumbing, telephone and airplanes had been survived, and he or, more likely, she, had a chance to live clear through a day, carrying out all the ordinary transactions of life, I wager my statement would be confirmed.

That a table should be loaded with oranges, grapes, apples, and green vegetables at nearly any time of year would leave them aghast.

Sugar! in any quantity in a great bowl on the table! For any one to take as much as they might wish! A hundred and fifty years ago sugar was a rare luxury. It was kept locked up in a box in the kitchen. The form of the handle on the sugar tin in your kitchen is a survival of this. You will notice that there is a place where you can insert a padlock. And such sugar as your ancestors would see on your table. They were used to coarse, brown sugar. Only at the end of the eighteenth century was beet sugar manufacture begun in Germany.

Then, white bread! The bread of the eighteenth century was milled by stone grinding, which left all the husks in. Machines milling began about 1870 and gradually resulted in a fine flour.

Meat would also cause some amazement. Wellington's soldiers were said to be a noble and handsome looking crew, but their rations consisted of one pound of wheat a day. No meat!

But the most astonishing thing for our ancestors to see would be the method of marketing our provisions. In their day there was a miller and a butcher and a baker and a green grocer and a fishmonger and so forth. What each had in stock was the limit of selection. To walk into a single store, ask for anything that happened to come into your mind and get it would simply seem like magic to the old folks.

With all the advantages of this industrial revolution, certain disadvantages have arisen. Dependence on canned goods and prepared foods and delicatessen sort of food is resulting in many instances in deficiency diseases. Fresh food is absolutely necessary for good health. The ease with which sugar and candy can be obtained has probably resulted in a much more obese adult population than our ancestors knew. And with obesity comes the possibility of a train of diseases of nutrition.

(Editor's Note: Dr. Clendenening cannot diagnose or give personal answers to letters from readers. Where questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up in order in the daily column. Address your queries to Dr. Logan Clendenening, care of this paper. Write legibly and not over 200 words.)

Building Activity In Grove City Has Shown Brisk Trend

Fifteen Structures Of The Better Class Are Now Being Constructed

GROVE CITY, Sept. 15.—While building in many towns has been at a standstill during summer, Grove City has in the past two months seen activity in the building line. At the present time there are 15 houses in the course of construction and each of these are of the better class.

There are some vacant rental properties in the town. They are of the poorer class of houses and are only rented when there are an extreme shortage and cramped housing conditions.

Three Sink Holes Hamper Work On New Perry Highway

SHEAKLEYVILLE, Pa., Sept. 15.—Three large sink holes which have developed are the only hindrances to the construction work now in progress on the Perry highway north of Sheakleyville, but these quagmires may hold up the work for some time. While it is expected that ultimately the sink holes will be conquered, all efforts so far have apparently had no effect.

The south end of the iron bridge on the old road through the swamp is slowly settling into the northern of the three sink holes. Two others are further south, between this bridge and the Custards-Geneva road. Cracks "large enough to bury a horse in" are reported yawning parallel to the new road.

Immense quantities of earth have been and still are being hauled in an effort to fill these quagmires of water and mud. People come for miles to see the work, and residents of the district are expressing doubt that the road can be put in.

Work on the remainder of the highway is going forward rapidly. The grading contractor, Watson Bowser, has orders to work rapidly. Machinery for pouring concrete is being moved onto the right of way preparatory to beginning that part of the work Monday.

The concrete arch at the ravine south of the marsh is finished and ready for the fill. Pier number three of the Sandy Creek bridge is under construction.

Fighters Of Forest Fires Are Winning Against The Drought

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 15.—Modern fire-fighters equipment, improved roads, and efficient organization are credited with having kept down fire losses in the national forests through the unusually dry summer months, says the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Lightning fires put many units to severe tests for several weeks. 1,060 such fires having been reported since January 1 on the northwestern national forests alone. A new record for the Eastern Region was recently set by the Ouachita National Forest in Arkansas with 76 lightning fires started by one storm.

Greater success in "getting fires young" has characterized this year's operations, resulting in a greater proportion of the fires being put out before they had covered much ground. Comparatively few have burned over large acreages. Protection costs have been about up to the annual average. It has been necessary to keep emergency fire guards busy in some big timber and watershed regions, but the total acreage swept by fire has been cut down materially, preliminary reports to the Forest Service's Washington office show.

Fire-fighting expenses from emergency appropriations mounted sharply in the last ten days of August in Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, and California, averaging close to $7,000 a day in each of the two Northwest Regions, and about one half that amount for the California Region.

Hearst Arrives
Back Home Today,

Civic Groups Will Greet
New York Publisher

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—William Randolph Hearst was to return from Europe this morning and be greeted by many friends and delegations consisting of government officials and executives of war veterans' organizations and civic groups.

The edict of the French government, ordering the publisher to leave France, is responsible for the demonstration here that will welcome Mr. Hearst to his native land. Delegations from Washington, Pittsburgh and Albany reached New York last night.

The plan to welcome Mr. Hearst back to his own country originated with the Disabled War Veterans' association. Daniel J. Manning, representative of the organization, chartered the Steamer Hook Mountain to go down the bay this morning and opened headquarters yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Simultaneously Representative Thomas Cullen, leader of the New York delegation, named a committee consisting of Representatives Loring M. Black Jr., Sol Bloom, Fiorello H. La Guardia and Dr. William I. Sirach to arrange for a congressional committee to join in the welcome.

The veterans, at Mr. Hearst's request, will make the reception very informal.

DIVORCE INDUSTRY IS BOOMING

The 18,000 residents of Reno, Nev., have no complaint to make about the business depression this year which has struck other cities. Divorce, its leading industry, is bringing in approximately $3,000,000 annually to local trade channels and the market is running well over par. Washoe courthouse, above, in the heart of Reno, boasts more divorces than any other building in the world. An increase over the 2,106 Reno divorces granted last year has been forecast.

More Congratulations

Several additional letters have been received extending congratulations on the fiftieth anniversary of The New Castle News. They are as follows:

New Castle, Pa.
Sept. 14, 1930.

Dear Fred: I, too, must send you my congratulations even though it be a bit late.

It does my heart good to know a Croton boy made so good in his chosen profession. You know the old saying, Fred—"Tis not he who ruins well for a season—But he who holds forth all the end." and this you have faithfully done.

It is not all of us who reach the goal of our desires and you who have done so, richly deserve the blessings that are yours.

Long after you are gone Fred, your name will be remembered and your works live after you.

No finer monument can a man have than this.

So again my congratulations to a good newspaper and a good man. Your Old Time Friend, JIMMY WYSNER.

New Castle, Pa.
Sept. 11, 1930.

Mr. Fred Rentz, President News Company, New Castle, Pa. My Dear Mr. Rentz:

I have just returned from a few days vacation but it is not too late. I want to add my personal word of congratulation to the many which you have already received, on the completion of fifty years with the New Castle News Company.

New Castle is a most fortunate city to have a public spirited person as yourself to control the policy of its only newspaper. I take great pleasure in congratulating you on fifty years of real public service and hope that you will enjoy many more years of such service. I am,

Sincerely Yours,
R. L. MEERMANS,
General Secretary Y. M. C. A.

Colliers, W. Va.
Sept. 14, 1930

My Dear Fred: The fiftieth anniversary number of The News has reached me. I am constrained to extend felicitations because after nearly half a century of your personal effort you have easily the best daily published in New Castle. Evidently you have followed the example of the postage stamp—you have stuck to your job until you have delivered the goods in a way that everybody who knows you cannot fail to be proud of you.

They tell us that most great institutions are nothing but the lengthened shadow of some individual who has devoted time and effort to the development of his vision. The News as such is a credit to you—you are by the same measure a credit to The News.

The reproduction of the first page of the original News was interesting—it was good newspaper work to show you started with fifty years ago. Aside from the reproduction of the original paper there was little remarkable about it. Everything that exists had to be started sometime—the remarkable thing is the character, quality, high standard, incomparable paper which you get out today. I wonder if the regular readers of The News realize that it would be quite impossible to find anywhere—in the United States or elsewhere—a paper issued in a city the size of New Castle that carries so fully all of the local news as well as the unequalled worldwide news service, and great variety of features which you give your readers. These benefits enjoyed by your clientele are the products of efficient management—forty-eight years of cumulative experience, study, work, time, effort, vision, continuously striving to do the job better each day. My hat is off to you, sir as a publisher and a citizen.

I say "citizen" because your paper reflects your interest in your fellow man. You do not need to give time to being the president of the hospital, neither do you need to head or be so near the top of the list on every good philanthropic movement that is undertaken in your end of the state. But you just have to do it. It's your nature. The person who studies your paper would expect it of you, and the person who studies you would expect such a paper to be produced by you. My sincere best wishes.

Disaster Committee
Of Local Red Cross
Gets InstructionsRoster And Red Cross Manual
Sent To 50 Members Of Relief Committee
Here

If disaster should strike New Castle or any section of Lawrence county the disaster relief committee of the local Red Cross chapter is expected to function mechanically.

A roster of the 50 members of the relief committee together with the American Red Cross disaster relief manual was today sent to each member from the local chapter headquarters. The manual sets forth in chronological order, the action to be taken by the chapter chairman when disaster strikes.

Interest in disaster relief became more intense during the past few weeks following the hurricane disaster in the Dominican republic. The manual shows that from 1881 to 1929 the American Red Cross rendered aid in 1,014 disasters in the United States. The expenditures of the organization for domestic disaster relief during this period totaled $52,774,328.44.

The Red Cross has become the disaster relief organization of the country. The congressional charter has definitely fixed this responsibility, and a complete organization, procedure and technique for handling disasters has been developed as the result of experience in 1,014 domestic disasters during the past 48 years. The nation and the community naturally turn to the American Red Cross when disaster strikes.

Since disasters may occur in any community, each chapter disaster relief committee must be prepared to shoulder the relief responsibility, in accordance with the basic principles set forth in the manual now being distributed to members of the Lawrence county disaster relief committee.

News Of The World As Told In Pictures

YOUR HOSPITALITY BEGINS IN THE DINING ROOM

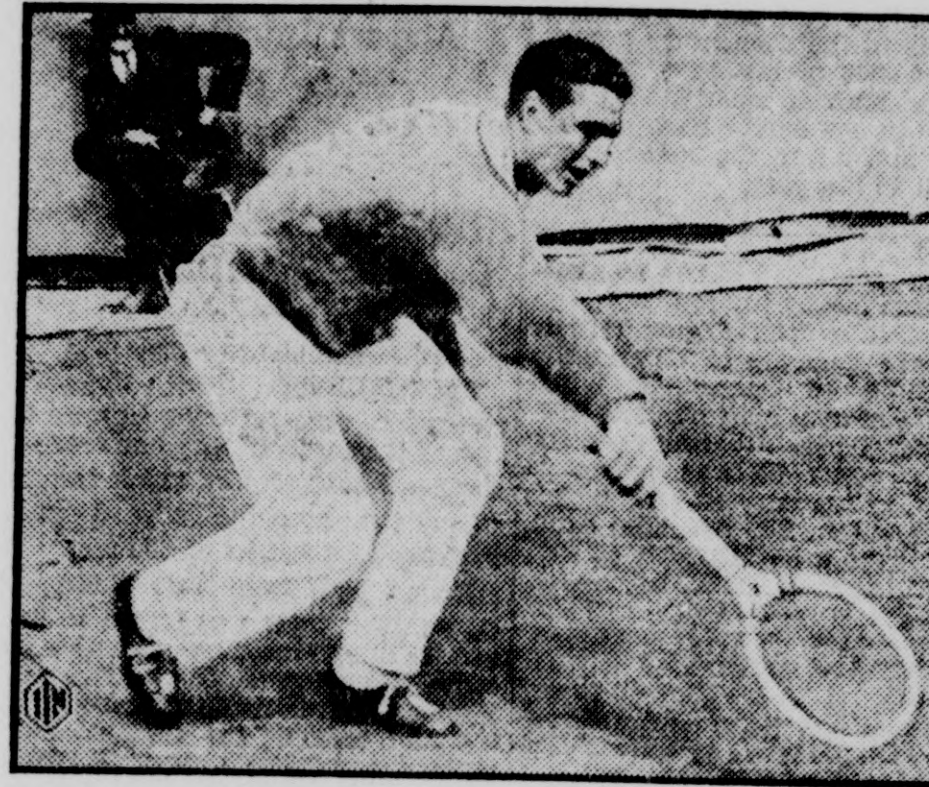

Hospitality begins in the dining room, and, as the winter season draws near, this room should be prepared for entertaining. The room pictured, like the rest of the house, is colonial in type. The wallpaper is a scenic design in soft greens and browns, the furniture mahogany, the floor stained dark brown and waxed, covered with an oriental rug in blues, browns, rust and cream with touches of taupe and old rose. The double pedestal table, side board, china cabinet and chairs are in Sheraton type. The three-fold screen has a Chinese design in dull gold on soft blue. The design was selected for Central Press by Elizabeth H. Russell, decoration editor of The American Home Magazine.

Powerful Prisoner

A prisoner with such strength that he tears a two-inch thick telephone book in two without the slightest difficulty and thinks it amusing to bend jail bars out of shape, is the problem of Los Angeles county jail guards. He is Ezra Blackmar, ex-vaudeville strong man, jailed on vagrancy charges. Above, in jail garb, he is maltreating a telephone book.

Judge Hildebrand Renders Opinion On Realty Deal

Refuses Motion For Specific
Performance Of Contract
For An Exchange

$12,000 LOAN IS INVOLVED IN CASE

In an opinion handed down by Judge Hildebrand this morning in the case of Agnes M. Rhodes against W. Claire Smiley, in which the plaintiff asked for the specific performance of a contract for the exchange of real estate, the bill was dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff.

Under the terms of a written agreement the plaintiff was to convey property of 306 Highland avenue to defendant and defendant was to convey property at 816 Highland avenue to plaintiff, subject to a mortgage of $12,000.

Smiley admitted the written agreement but claimed that by an oral agreement at the same time the written agreement was made, and omitted from the written agreement the plaintiff was to turn over to defendant a one-half interest in a business, which was then being conducted by the plaintiff in her property which plaintiff has refused to do.

Defendant avers that his property at the time of the agreement was encumbered by a mortgage to the extent of $27,000. He says that it was understood between him and the plaintiff that in order to consummate the deal, the defendant must raise $12,000 by mortgage on the property to be received by him from plaintiff.

It is claimed that the plaintiff represented that she had been offered a loan of $15,000 on the property, but defendant found it impossible to secure a loan of $12,000. Defendant claims to have made an honest effort to secure the loan, and denied the right of the plaintiff to force specific performance under the circumstances of the case.

Judge Hildebrand holds in his opinion that the evidence shows that both parties were mistaken in their opinion that $12,000 could be raised on plaintiffs property. He therefore concludes that since both parties knew the loan had to be secured to make the deal, that it would be inequitable to enforce the agreement.

AN APPRECIATION

Over at New Castle there is a newspaper and Fred Rentz is the newspaper and the newspaper is Fred Rentz. It is 50 years old, this newspaper, and take it from me it is a hundred years old. I should print how old Fred is and give some more data but that wouldn't be nice. Anyhow Fred's hair isn't as gray as mine so I'm off that age stuff.

But last week Fred's paper celebrated its 50th birthday and the edition they put out was one of which any newspaper could be proud. The New Castle News is a real honest to goodness paper and is one of the kind that adds to a city's standing and is also of the kind that dares to speak right out in meeting.

Council To Investigate Status Of Firemen's Relief Association

Attorney William J. Moffatt, counsel for the Firemen's Relief association, today asked city council to investigate the status of the association at the municipal building to recognize the association officially so that the payment of two percent on premiums on foreign fire insurance of 1929 could be paid by the state-and not general to the association.

Council did so but later reconsidered their action and Mr. Moffatt and George Buchanan have been asked to attend council session Friday. It is reported approximately $5,600, from 1929, is due the association.

When council, at Reeves suggestion, passed the resolution giving the approval, they were under the impression that the ordinance of 1897 recognized the association. Solicitor White, legal adviser to council, that an ordinance of 1922, which related to pensions for police and firemen repealed that measure.

Councilman Reeves took issue with Solicitor White who remarked: "I want you to know this, but you can do as you please."

"Don't this council recognize the association?" asked Reeves.

"We have to find that out," responded Genkinger.

Council went into a discussion and the situation as explained briefly by White was to the effect that the association is an organization of about 100 members. It is a social society. No one can enter into membership by vote. There are six members of the paid fire department who do not belong.

"They have a charter," said Reeves.

"That is not the question," replied White. "I do not think the other gentlemen understand this." They admitted they did not.

White questioned the right of the city turning over the money to the association, pointing out that in his belief that if the society wished to abandon the charter the fund in the treasury could be divided.

Councilman Burns presented a motion reconsidering the approval. It was carried. Another motion asked that Moffatt and Buchanan be present Friday when the entire problem will be threshed out.

White, when asked, told council that at the present time council is dealing with three bodies, police, firemen and the association. "You must also consider the right of the taxpayer," warned White and explained again what could happen to the money if the association dissolved.

He said council is figuring on an insurance company handling the police pension, the firemen administering their own and the request to turn over the two percent on premiums was the third problem before them.

The first ordinance, or that of 1897 stated that the money should be applied for the use and benefit of the members of fire departments and for the relief and support of members of the department who shall be injured while on duty and for the burial of members killed while on duty and for the pensioning of the dependent members of the families.

The association was recognized by that ordinance but White in his opinion today said that ordinance which provided for pensions for police and firemen had repealed by implication the ordinance of 1897. He said that personally he was not concerned but he felt it right that he print this out to council before the city formally recognized the association in which event the state's auditor-general would pay annually the sums direct to the association.

Children Have Fun At Afternoon Party

Favors Provided For All; Games
Feature Afternoon's
Entertainment

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 15.—It was just like any party. The children ranged from four to seven years arrived promptly at 2 o'clock Saturday all dressed in their best. Little girls lined on the porch swing waited breathlessly for the party to begin, and informed their hostess, Katherine Moorhead, Pittsburgh Circle that they could hardly wait, as this was their first party. Little boys were not inclined to be so gentle about it. They wanted to begin right away.

The little group assembled on the lawn for games including old favorites like drop the handkerchief, in and out the window and farmer in the dell, then of course the apples on the string came in for their share in the fun.

There was something for everyone to do. After all had assembled, that is except Robert Haines who was late, the little children filed into the living room where they were given bags and told to find the nuts hidden in every corner of the rooms and porch. Later they pinned tails on the donkey, which furnished much amusement for all. They left the donkey very much stuck up.

With no food in sight the children began to worry, about 4 o'clock. They had been told that this was to be a party, and as yet there was none in sight. David Morrison said he didn't think so much of a party where there wasn't any, in one minute the happy little faces became quite unhappy.

At last in an outburst of bravado, one child asked his hostess if she was going to have ice cream. When informed in the affirmative the cry being informed that all would be well, the party seemed to be livelier. The table was arranged in the garden under the cherry trees and great cheers rang out as the children not only received the favorite delicacies but were awarded for winning games and contests with various prizes. All received pop favors, caps, and numerous knick knacks dear to the heart of every child. The hostess was assisted with the games and in serving by Gail Morrison.

Guests of the afternoon were: Donnell Magee, Joe Bradley, Eddie French, Robert Haines, David Morrison, Elizabeth Howell, Florence Howell, Mary Louise McCaren, Janet Patterson, Nancy Jane Morrison, Dorothy Alice Campbell and Alice Marie Wilson.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

25. Nathanael Greene—Greene vs. Cornwallis

GREENE BEGAN HIS FAMOUS CAMPAIGN TO RECOVER SOUTH CAROLINA FROM THE BRITISH BY SPLITTING HIS LITTLE ARMY. LATE IN DECEMBER, 1780, HE SENT GEN. DANIEL MORGAN WITH 900 MEN TO SKIRT THE ENEMY'S LEFT AND RAID THE BRITISH OUT-POSTS EXTENDING SOUTHWARD TO AUGUSTA (GA).

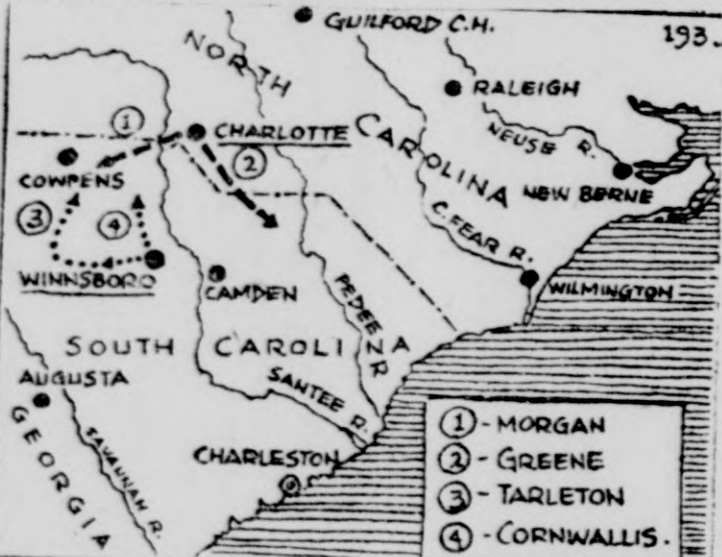

GREENE HIMSELF, WITH A THOUSAND MEN, MARCHED DOWN INTO THE VALLEY OF THE PEDEE TO CO-OPERATE WITH GENERAL FRANCIS MARION (THE FAMOUS "SWAMP FOX") IN THREATENING THE ENEMY'S COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN CAMDEN AND CHARLESTON, AT THE SAME TIME KEEPING HIS EYE ON CORNWALLIS WHO WAS AT WINNSBORO.

CONTRARY TO GREENE'S EXPECTATIONS, CORNWALLIS ALSO DIVIDED HIS FORCES, SENDING COLONEL BANASTRE TARLETON, WITH TARLETON'S CAVALRY LEGION AND SOME VETERAN TORY REGIMENTS, TO SWING TO THE WEST IN A WIDE ARC TO INTERCEPT MORGAN (JAN. 1, 1781).

(Copyright, 1930, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

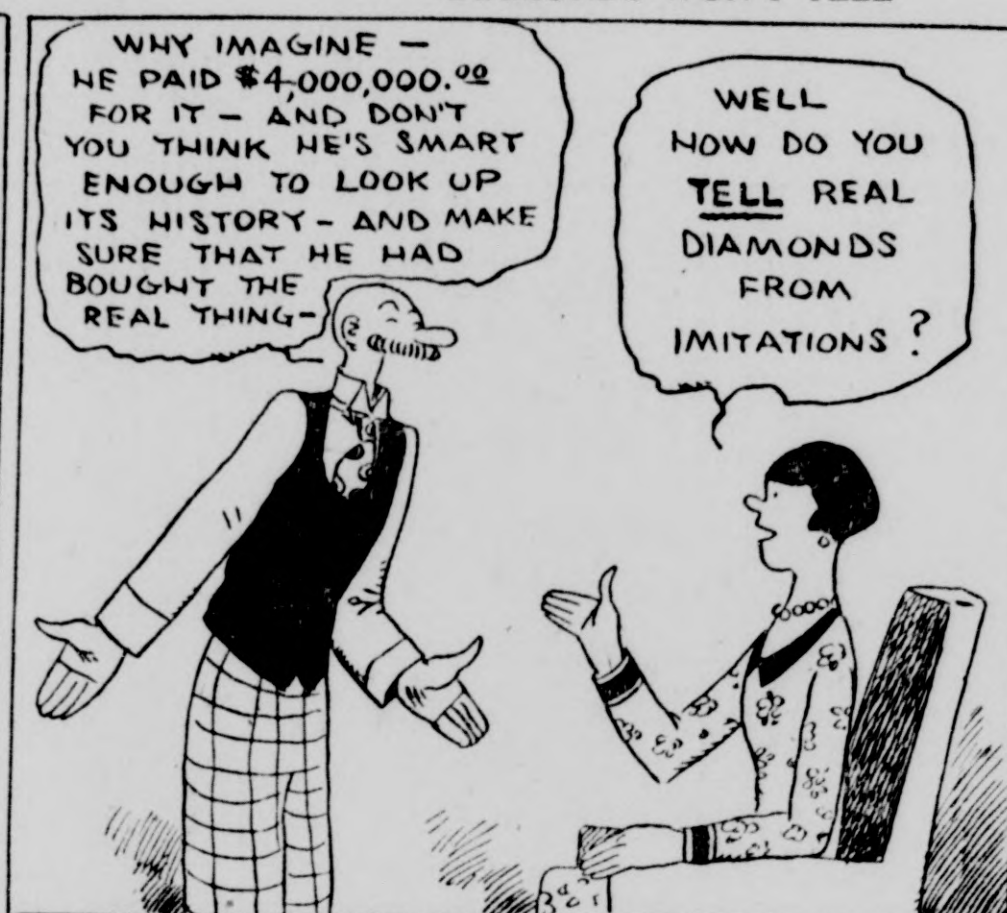

A WEEK LATER, CORNWALLIS, WITH THE MAIN BODY OF THE BRITISH ARMY, MOVED NORTHWARD, HOPING TARLETON WOULD DRIVE MORGAN'S COLUMN TO THE EAST AND INTO HIS CLUTCHES. BUT MORGAN'S SCOUTS WARNED HIM OF THE APPROACH OF THE BRITISH, AND HE TURNED WESTWARD TOWARD COWPENS.

Brooklyn Takes First Place In National League

Dodgers Ascend To Leadership By Defeating Cincinnati, Cubs Idle

CARDINALS SPLIT TWO IN BOSTON

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Topping a perfect week which netted them eight victories, the Brooklyn Robins again routed the Reds in a Sunday game, 8 to 3, and today the flying flock soared out in front in the National League by half a game's lead over the Cardinals and a full game ahead of the suddenly collapsed Cubs. The triumph was the tenth straight for Brooklyn.

Hollis Thurston went aloft in the first inning and Jumbo Elliott took up the reins, allowing only six well spaced blows as he tamed Cincinnati. Babe Herman was the chief batsman for Brooklyn, hitting safely three times.

Burling Grimes evenly distributed the Braves' eleven hits, while his teammates blasted Brandt and Frankhouse and St. Louis copped the opener easily 9 to 2 but dropped the final 7 to 4 with Johnson nipped for six runs in three innings against steady pitching for the Braves by Cantwell.

Cubs Are Idle
The Cubs were idle after yielding a skirmish to the Phillies Saturday. They play a twin bill in Philadelphia today.

Under the eyes of 45,000 fans the Giants removed themselves further from world series chances by losing twice to the Pirates. Spencer who relieved Kremer in the opening pitch, pushed over the first Pittsburgh tally with a single in the tenth. The Bucs taking it 8 to 6. A homer by Traynor cooked everything in the tea tilt, which went 7 to 3.

Earnshaw was aided by Homers from the bats and Dykes and Simmons, the champion Athletics bagging another off Cleveland 7 to 1. Washington hopes for a pennant grew dimmer with a 2 to 1 fall before the Chicago White Sox, J. J. Moore, Rookie hurler, besting Al Crowder, Senator star.

The big right arm of Charlie Ruffing throttled the Tigers, the Yankee blackboarding a 10 to 3 affair.

Dodgers Win Eight
Brooklyn won eight and lost no games in the week and ranked second in total hits with 88 (Sunday games not included). St. Louis was runner-up with one loss in seven games. The Phillies knocked 89 hits but dropped four out of nine games while the Pirates won two and lost two.

New York practically ended its pennant chase losing four out of five contests and it was a heartbreaking period for the Cubs who failed in five out of six contests. Cincinnati dropped seven straight games.

In the American plant the Browns advanced with six wins in seven skirmishes. Detroit took four out of six and Washington maintained a steady pace with four wins in six games. Chicago broke even in six trials while the champion A's marked time safely in front, losing two and taking two. The Yankees remained steady in third place although they lost five in eight games. Boston dug deeper in the cellar losing six in eight and Cleveland marked the week at the bottom with only one triumph in five encounters.

New Castle High Team Gets Ready For Coraopolis On Friday

Green Team Will Enter Fray For New Castle This Week

FEW VETERANS OF LAST SEASON

Night Game Will Give Team Baptism Of Fire For 1930 Season

Only five days remaining until the 1930 football season will be opened here when New Castle high meets Coraopolis high in the lid lifter of the season at Taggart field on Friday night "under the floodlights."

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will probably give his hokies the final workout in preparation for this game on Thursday. The gridirers after resting over the week-end will be sent through an intensive workout this afternoon at Taggart field.

Coraopolis Getting Reading

While the red and black eleven is doing its stuff here Coraopolis high is training just as hard as the locals in their city. Reports from that vicinity indicate that the locals will face worthy opponents in Coraopolis high on next Friday. The game will be the first of the season for Coraopolis also.

The workouts last week proved to be somewhat strenuous. Several scrimmages topped off by a practice game on last Friday afternoon constituted some of the workouts last week.

Coach Bridenbaugh this season is facing a huge task in selecting the first eleven to represent the local school. He has lots of material, but it is green. Several of the candidates have little experience. For instance, Andy Lasky who will probably be seen at half back against Coraopolis high Friday night. Lasky saw but little action in the junior high school.

Coach Bridenbaugh is dealing this season with inexperienced men and the outlook for the season at the present can't be termed any to bright. Only a few veterans from last season's first team will be seen on the first team. McAuley, signal barker for the last two years will be at quarterback again this year. Dick Thomas, from last season will likely occupy one of the halfback spots.

Fred Fabian, at fullback, saw action in that spectacular night game with Chaney high, last spring and the fans know what he can do. This lad has been making a creditable showing.

Andy Lasky is a new face to the fans on the gridiron. He is fast and strong but lacks experience.

On the line will be seen Bob Hoose last season backfield man who will be given the center assignment. Robert Jamison veteran center may be used at end. Harry Crisci played in that spring night game also and proved a tower of strength on the line at tackle. Fred Hileman a member from the second team last season will also be seen on the line as will Mike DeCarbo a newcomer who may do the punting this season. Either DeCarbo or Lasky will be called to kick. Percules Askounes second stringer from last year will occupy one of the tackle berths on the line. It is likely.

Coy Hubbard is another lad who has improved rapidly to make the first team. He will probably be used at guard. It is not known whether George Deep will start the game on Friday night. He has only two games to play and then he will be ineligible.

There is one thing the fans will see in the New Castle team this year and that is a rather big line and a fast backfield.

Gilliland Wins Municipal Title

M. K. Gilliland Wins Municipal Golf Crown By Defeating Art Nelson

NELSON GOES GOOD FOR FIRST YEAR

M. K. Gilliland, former New Castle Field club champion, and one of the finest golfers in the city, won the municipal golf course championship by defeating Art Nelson 11 up and 9 to play in a 27-hole match that was originally scheduled for 36 holes, but Gilliland's lead at the end of the third nine was unsurmountable.

Art Nelson, playing his first year at the municipal course and a youngster in the bargain, gave the veteran Gilliland a good battle. Both reached the finals only after elimination of some mighty good golfers in the tourney. Gilliland had to dispose of R. W. Molesworth and Nelson beat Hackett Kennedy in the semi-final bracket.

One Over Par.

Gilliland played sensational golf to win the tourney. He had a 42 for the first nine holes, a 44 for the second nine and then in the afternoon after only about an hour's rest came back and shot a 39 on the first nine holes, which is one over par.

On the No. 4 hole a 316-yard climb up grade, Gilliland played an eagle four, which is excellent golf if anybody cares to ask. He was on the green in three shots, one with the driver and two spoon shots, and sunk his putt. The big long hole as it is referred to at the muni course has only been eagled once before and this time by Mose Mancine, caddy-master.

On the 18th hole, a 175-yard one, Gilliland had a 2, his drive with the iron was on the green and he sunk his first putt. On the No. 2 hole of the first nine in the morning, Nelson had a birdie 3 on the 300-yard hole.

Nelson Is Good.

Nelson in the first nine turned in a 47, then came back with a 45 for the second nine, and on the third nine had a 44 against the 39 for Gilliland. Nelson deserves a lot of praise for his showing in the first year at the municipal course, and with a few more years under his belt will be up among the leading golfers of the city. Gilliland is an old hand at the game and has played golf for quite a number of years. He ranks with the best in New Castle, which includes Nunn, Trainor, Long and Perry.

The tourney was a big success in every way. Walter "Hub" Hart acted as official scorer for the matches. Mose Mancine aided Hart in staging the tournament.

A real lively tourney will no doubt be staged next year.

Enterprise To Race Shamrock In Second Leg

American Yacht Will Go Against Lipton's Yacht Again Today

ENGLISHMAN IS VERY GOOD LOSER

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 15.—Out there where the sea stands up on its rear legs and the wind sings a haunting, minor tune, Enterprise, multi-millionaire America under full sail, and Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's last and dying hope, will race it out today over the second leg of the series for the international championship. This, just by way of variety, will be a triangular race of thirty nautical miles, whereas the premiere of the series on Saturday saw Enterprise win over a straight-away course of leeward-and-return by a matter of a half mile. Thus, the second test was to come up this morning and Sir Thomas, glorious loser since 1899, seemed destined to lose another race and, in fact, was no nearer victory than he has been during the last thirty one years.

An old man now with the best of his years remembered only as whitened milestones of the past, the baronet was sending this latest of his hopes out to sea this morning for a race that was to determine whether he had the beggarman's chance or only the usual fighting Lipton gesture toward a trophy that has evaded his best efforts so long that most people, having become accustomed to his failures, were prepared for another defeat. Most popular of losers, Sir Thomas was willing to trade a popular defeat today for an unpopular victory.

In his attempt to win today, where victory had eluded him all these years, Sir Thomas last night made a drastic move. Late at night, when all was quiet in Newport harbor, he put his sailors to work and had them remove two thousand pounds of lead ballast from the hull of his challenger.

This, together with lessons learned in last Saturday's defeat will—so Sir Thomas hopes—enable the Irish entry to sweep through to triumph today.

Allegheny Grid Outlook Bright

Week's Training Accomplishes Wonders With Allegheny College Team

MEADVILLE, Sept. 15.—A week in training camp has accomplished wonders with the Allegheny College football team, and with the passing of each day the outlook for the approaching season grows brighter.

Under the direction of Head Coach Harry W. Maude) Crum, now in his second year here, the Alleghenies, 36 strong, have found their football legs and are rapidly getting in shape for the opening of the grueling eight-game schedule.

Among the veteran lettermen remaining from the 1929 team, Coach Crum has Captain Bob Garbark, fullback; Harry Dennison and Nick Varano, halfbacks; and Walter Berger, quarterback, to give him an entire first-string backfield. On the line he has Ross Brown, end; Louis Pichlino, tackle; Bernard McManus, Knighton Waite and John Knapp guards, and Frank Morse center. In addition, Art Balser, who earned a letter as a fullback a year ago, has been moved to the line and is at present a strong candidate for a guard position.

With this wealth of veteran material, the Meadville Methodists are approaching the season in high spirits. The first game on the card is that with Edinboro State Teachers, at Meadville, October 4.

Homers Greatest Thrill In Game Says Hank As He Hits Some More

As Told to William Ritt, Central Press Sports Editor, by HACK WILSON

Chicago's Cubs' Slugging Outfielder

"The current home run craze—I should really use the word 'enthusiasm'—is not being overdone. Everyone, fans and players, life the homers for the thrill they give, so why not have a lot of them? The homer is the biggest kick in baseball. It gives the diamond game the right 'punch.' The close, shorter hits do not give a batter the thrill a home run does. At least, not to me. I get a much bigger kick out of dropping one out of sight than beating out a fast throw to third for a triple.

Frankly, I don't believe we can have too many homers. At least, not as long as fans and players feel about those solid four-base smashes as they do now.

"I've been asked why I'm hitting home runs more frequently this year than in any other season before. Well, I've changed my batting stance just a bit and that, of course, helps a lot if you find the right position. I think I have. And then, again, home run hitting is like pitching or fielding. A player has good streaks and slumps. I've been enjoying a good streak.

"Like most of the Clubs I'm pulling for the Athletics to win in the American League. Then, if the Cubs win out in the National league we get one more chance at that bunch. I'm personally eager for a crack at the pitching of those fellows, Earnshaw and Grove and the rest of them.

"But we have to win the pennant first, so there's no use worrying about the world series until that is done."

Chittum, Ramsey, North Highland Racers, Deadlock Captures Series

Leading Drivers Confer With Officials Who Make Deadlock Award

FLEMING KILLED ON SEVENTH LAP

Bill Chittum, Columbus, dirt track champion at 100 miles and Buck Ramsey, Pittsburgh, drove a deadlock in the 100 mile gasoline derby which cost the life of Walter Fleming, Oil City, at the New Castle race track, Saturday afternoon.

When Ramsey finished apparently 300 feet ahead of Chittum, he was given the race by the officials but Chittum's retinue entered a protest and after a conference with Ramsey's retinue the race was called a tie.

Chittum entered the pit twice, once on the forty eighth mile for carburetor trouble and again on the eighty ninth mile to change a tire. Ramsey did not enter a pit once. Neither did Ken Dunlap, third. Ernie Jones was fourth.

The time was two hours, one minute. Chittum and Ramsey divided $750. Dunlap collected $150 and Ernie Jones pocketed $100. The race financially was not so hot and the officials didn't carry away a bale of profit.

Concerning the protest over the winner, Chittum's retinue claimed he was several laps ahead when he first entered the pit and on the eighty ninth mile when he entered was one lap still in the lead.

Ramsey made this up and they started off even and Chittum's retinue claimed that Bill passed Number 5 or Ramsey's car. Ramsey's retinue denied this and claimed that Buck was actually 300 feet ahead of Chittum.

There were 16 checkers in charge of Frank Ripple, former dirt track auto champion. Each checker kept trace of one car and he was expected to jot down everytime the car he was marking flashed by the stand.

Just who actually won the race isn't known to the writer as he wasn't a checker and the officials, Chittum and Ramsey were content to call it a draw, split first and second money and leave town good friends.

Walter Fleming driving number 93 was killed when his Willys-Knight stock car climbed the fence on the three quarters turn in the seventh lap. He was thrown back on the track.

George Bowers following took the fence rather than drive over the unconscious form of Fleming. On the same lap Bill Schemp plumed through the fence at the grandstand.

Sixteen cars were started. Ten cars finished the race which was thrilling from the start to finish. Several skidded off the track in addition to those which climbed the fence.

Frank Ripple, Youngstown, was in charge of the 16 checkers, one for each car. Jack Hayes was the starter. Johnny Black, manager director and Bob Wyke was the promoter of the American Motor contest association event.

Sport Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

BASEBALL certainly is an inefficient game. In that four-club pennant fight in the National League 75 per cent of the effort will prove to have been wasted.

In Quiet Quakerville in Quaker Town, where life is slow, I heard a ball fan chuckle low.

His was a joyous action. He held a sport page in his hand and as he read his smile was bland and full of satisfaction.

"I see," said he, "Giants, Robins, Cubs and Cards are scrambling round like dubs."

I see this by the papers. Our A's have got the pennant pinched.

Our Phils? They've got the cellar cinched.

So why then all these capers?"

Edd Roush, who played for the Giants in 1928 was in that "Old Timers" ball game in Boston, proving that it is possible to grow a gray beard in less than 12 months.

One Old Timer who failed to show up was John Picus Quinn. It seems he had a date that afternoon to hurl ball for the world champion Athletics.

It looks like the Cubs are caught short in National League pennant. They didn't have enough margin.

Wrestling must open up like football to become popular, says writer. That's it. Instead of one long two-hour scrimmage why not have the boys boot field goals with each other?

In September it's a wise promoter who peddles his fight cards on account of too much world series and football news.

North Highland Team Will Claim Independent Title

The North Highland baseball team captured two games from the New Castle Indies Saturday at Centennial field, and thereby took the series. The first game was 2 to 2, and the second game was 4 to 0. Carl Aultman was the big gun for the Highland team pitching a fine game in the first set to and then going three innings of the second game and pitching good baseball.

The Indies had difficulty hitting Aultman effectively, he limited them to three hits in the first game, and was not hit very hard the second game. He was removed in favor of Cannon.

Pannella hurled the first game for the Indies, and Jimmy DiMuccio and Fabian divided pitching honors in the second game. Davis, Sargent, Lamm, and Cannon turned in some timely swatting.

Tech Gridders Reaching Form

Carnegie Tech Football Team Enters Third Week Of Intensive Training

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 15.—A signal drill in the morning and scrimmage in the afternoon today started the Carnegie Tech football squad on its third week of training at Skibo camp.

The scrimmage session in the afternoon showed rapidly increasing smoothness on the varsity, but naturally, there is still much to be done before the opener. With the opening of school just a few days away, when the time allotted for workouts will be cut down to but a few hours each evening, the men are being pushed severely. Coaches Steffen and Waddell have designed a program for the next five days which will show up any faulty timing in the many intricate plays for which the Tartan team are famous.

The first-string line today was composed of Captain Dresnar and Sample at the guards, Ducanis at center, Fletcher and Higberger at tackles, Rosenweig and L. Flanagan at the ends, McCurdy at quarterback, Eyth and Kavel at the halfbacks and Karcis at fullback.

The opposition was furnished by a team of veterans and sophomores who made the going tough all day. Replacements were frequent, as the coaches are giving every player an opportunity to show what he can do in the last week of camp.

Little attention was paid to the score today, but a careful scrutiny of each play was made as it was run off. By this method, every mistake was checked and corrected as the player who made it was reprimanded. Slowly, but carefully, the eleven which is to face Buffalo University on September 27, is being shaped up, although it is entirely probable that many of the players who start against the New Yorkers will not be in the battle array in the big November contests.

PENNSYLVANIA SQUAD GOES THROUGH ITS PACES

Just a couple of action snaps to show that the football season is close at hand and that the boys are already hard at it preparing the stage for your Saturday afternoon entertainment for the next few months. Top photo shows the University of Pennsylvania squad in scrimmage with Walter Masters, halfback, going around end. Below are backfield candidates, Masters, Greene, Captain Dick Gentle and Gette.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

The automobile race at the New Castle fair track is over. It cost a life, several wrecked cars, portions of the fence and hundreds of persons will have to send their wearing apparel to the cleaners.

The crowd had many exciting moments but did not know for 30 minutes after Fleming crashed the fence that he had been fatally hurt. Most of them gasped when he hit the fence then went back to the task of trying to watch the cars whirl around.

The promoters said that the track had been wet down. They said water had been played on the course for seven hours Saturday. It had little effect and each car raised a cloud of dust for a pursuer to rush through.

Drivers said the track was one of the most dangerous they have been on. The back turn was no more dangerous than any other portion but it was there that Walter Fleming met his fate.

He was pursuing Bill Chittum, the dirt track champion. Fleming was on the inside with cars to his right. Bowers was in the middle of the track. Just what happened may never be exactly known.

Almost before the echo of the crashing fence and the roar of the motor sounded to the stands the fan stood up, gasped in astonishment and the watchers in the stand shouted to the started: "Cars wrecked!"

Out came the red flag, a signal to slow down and watch for cars, wrecked or stalled on the track. The drivers slowed down. Bowers, who had been following Fleming, took through the fence rather than strike Fleming's body.

In the lives of the drivers it was only an incident apparently. None of them dwelt on the accident following the race. They expressed sorrow but didn't talk much about it.

Some say it was his first race. Others claim he had driven in several races. His car was a stock racing car and the least wrong move meant a wreck.

Supposition is that Fleming tried to creep closer to the rail and the wheel did not work according to his calculations as the car was strange to him. He died 20 minutes after reaching the hospital.

He had 13th position in the pace. He substituted for another driver in a strange car. He was on a strange and dangerous dirt track. Everything apparently was against him.

According to story told after the race, Fleming knew the fence was not strong and thought it would be his "best friend" were he to meet with an accident while trying to win the race.

"The fence isn't strong. We can run through it if necessary," said the Oil City automobile salesman to a racing mate. Whether his chest and ribs were crushed and he received internal injuries when the machine hit the fence or when his car overturned and he flew from the seat isn't known.

A wife and child are grieving in Oil City. The drivers have sent messages of sympathy to the family. Beautiful bouquets have been sent but that doesn't bring back Fleming.

It isn't likely there will be any inquiry. The accident according to the best reports received was an accident. When the drivers signed entry blanks they waived all liability on the part of the A. M. C. A.

There was a dispute following the race. The checkers showed Buck Ramsey had won. Chittum's own checkers claim he had won. Chittum said he had gone 206 laps. This was adjusted and the race was called a draw.

Titan Line-up Is Taking Form

Members Of Varsity Are Soon To Be Known At Westminster

SECOND WEEK OF TRAINING ENDS

(Special To The News.)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 15.—Although Coach "Dike" Beede, playing a lone hand as mentor to the Westminster college football squad has but two weeks in which to look over his charges, the former Carnegie Tech star fullback has already indicated the players from whom he will in all probability select the Titans' opening lineup against Edinboro State Teachers' college on Sept. 27.

This group includes Michaels at quarter, Perrin or Bloker or Harper or Ketterer at left half, Haldy at right half and Hamas at full. Pirates Outbat Giants In Two Games At Polo Grounds

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Pirates captured a double-header from the Giants 8 to 6 and 7 to 3, yesterday. Wood and Walker started the second game. Wood was hit by a batted ball and was relieved by French. Donohue took Walker's place in the eighth. In the first game Boal hit a homer and the second Traynor and Terry turned in four ply clouts. The box score:

HOSPITAL AID SOCIETY SETS DONATION DATES

Organizations Of City And County Urged To Have Donations Ready October 31 And November 1

Friday, October 31, and Saturday, November 1, have been set aside by the Jameson Memorial Aid Society as donation days for the hospital. Members of the society are asking that all organizations, churches and societies of the city and county plan to help make those donation days a great success.

It makes no difference how small the donations—every bit will help in this good cause. Fruit, jelly, canned goods, groceries and vegetables are needed. If each person will give one or two articles it will promise a good showing at the ingathering and be able to add much to the good work of the hospital. One-fourth of all the patients treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital receive care free of charge, hence the need for donations of food.

All organizations are asked to plan now to give something to the hospital, so that the donations will be ready by October 31 and November 1. A room downtown will be used to receive the donations. The location of this place will be announced later. However, any person who can send their donation direct to the hospital on the above mentioned dates, can do so. Members of the committee urge that granges and churches in the rural districts will co-operate in this movement.

Members of the committee in charge are: Mrs. B. F. Butler, county churches; Mrs. James C. Raney, Mahoningtown churches; Mrs. W. W. Campbell, New Wilmington churches; Mrs. Fred L. Rentz, Methodist, Baptist and Episcopal churches; Mrs. W. L. Finerock, Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches; Mrs. John Offutt, Christian, Jewish and all other denominations.

The Jameson Memorial Aid Society plans to appoint other committee members among the various organizations at a latter date. The collection of the gifts will be in charge of the special committee.

Shenango Loses To Alumni Eleven

Alumni Defeats Shenango 13-0; New Football Field Is Initiated Saturday

On Saturday afternoon on the new football field of the Shenango high school which was initiated on Saturday, the Alumni football team defeated the Shenango varsity team. The final score was 13-0.

The Alumni chose to receive. They failed to advance and Shafte pointed to Arnold. From this point of the game until the end of the first half the Shenango varsity outplayed their opponents but could not score. In the second quarter the varsity came close to scoring. Arnold's and Seech's consistent plunging brought the ball to the 2-yard line for the Shenango eleven but at this point the Alumni demonstrated real ability in holding the opponents from scoring.

Shenango lost the ball on down and Shafte kicked for the Alumni. This was the closest the varsity came to scoring. At the beginning of the final quarter the Alumni crossed the goal line when Cowmeadow plunged over the line for the first tally. A try for the extra point failed.

The second and final touchdown was scored by the Alumni when a pass, Lawrence to Shafte, was completed. Cowmeadow plunged through the line for the extra marker. The final score was 13-0. The game gave the coach an opportunity to see what the material is like. The Shenango boys looked good in the game.
